Warmer, Rain Slated For Today

Slightly warmer, cloudy and occasional rains was today's gloomy prediction by the weatherman.

After dipping to a low of 29 early Tuesday, the thermometer will hover between 40 and 45 today.

The prediction came even as streams all over the State were swelling to flood stage, as school after school closed its doors because bad roads prevented the kiddies from attending, as lumbering and Winter farm activities lulled to a standstill.

Clay roads in most of rural Georgia were impassable to all but heavy-duty trucks and vehicles with chains, but the farm area didn't have a monopoly in this line. Even metropolitan DeKalb County closed down its schools Tuesday on account of bad roads, but they were due to open today. No one expected any attendance marks to be broken, however, as the roads were still "touch and go."

In Rome, where the Oostanaula and Etowah join to make the Coosa, the threat of flood remained imminent with the prediction of more rain for today. If it comes, the Coosa is expected to leap over its banks, and drive scores of families from their homes. The city missed flood-stage by only inches Tuesday. The river, which rose continuously all day Monday and Monday night, began to steady by noon Tuesday, stopping at 25.6 feet. Thirty is the mark the people start moving on.

The Chattahoochee in the Ben Hill section of Fulton County, and in other sectors, swept over its banks, inundating farmlands and damaging Winter grain and cover crops. The Ocmulgee at Macon was at 19 feet, a foot above flood stage. The Oconee at Milledgeville had reached 26.6 feet, six and a half feet above flood stage.

At Columbus, the Chattahoochee was at 27 feet, well below the 34-foot flood stage, and Montezuma reported the Flint had risen there to 11.5 feet, and was expected to rise another five feet.

In Bartow County, the Etowah River was going down after rising 15 feet above normal. Work at the Allatoona Dam at Cartersville was not hampered by the water. Resident Engineer Charles Jackson said the river had to rise about five times as much before threatening the huge dam.

MARTHA JEAN HUDSON GETS A CARRIAGE

Ex-Grid Star's Wife Victim in $1,400 Haul

A Negro held up and bound a prominent matron in her North Stratford Road home Tuesday and robbed her of money and jewels valued at $1,400, then escaped a police cordon.

Mrs. Arthur Pew, Jr., wife of the head of the Arthur Pew Construction Company, was the victim of the daylight robbery. Her husband is the former All-American and all-time great University of Georgia football star.

She told Fulton County Officers Aubrey Thompson and Joe Smith she had just returned to her home at 3465 North Stratford Rd., N. W., when the Negro came to the door and asked for work.

Mrs. Pew told him she had no work, but he asked her to take his name. She turned to look for a pencil and turned back again to be confronted with a pistol in the Negro's hands.

Mrs. Pew said the Negro marched her up the stairs to the second floor bedroom. There he picked up two of Mrs. Pew's scarves, and bound her hands.

Ordered into the bathroom adjoining the bedroom, Mrs. Pew was made to lie on the floor.

She said a noise downstairs attracted the Negro's attention. "What's that?" he demanded to know. Mrs. Pew told him there were other persons downstairs.

Mrs. Pew first told the Negro her pocketbook was in the bedroom, when he demanded it after taking her into the bathroom. Then, when he failed to find it, she told him it was where she had placed it near the downstairs door as she came in.

When the Negro started downstairs he met a Negro maid and brandished the pistol at her, forcing her to stand aside.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Pew said, she had managed to ease up from the bathroom floor and turn the lock in the door. Then she called out of the window for help.

Leaving the house, the Negro picked up Mrs. Pew's pocketbook containing $40 in cash, and two diamond rings valued at $1,350.

Lt. Cal Cates, of the Fulton County Police, called for bloodhounds from the Bellwood camp. They trailed the Negro to a streetcar line, then lost the scent.

Police checked all trolleys for hours after the holdup, but without success in their search for the Negro.

Mrs. Pew described the holdup man as about 25 years old, wearing a plaid coat, with a blue sweater under it.

$40,000 COLLECTION

McRae Camellias Win Sweepstakes

By LENNA McKINLEY

A McRae camellia enthusiast, T. J. Smith, walked off Tuesday with the Sweepstakes Award in the third annual show of the Atlanta Camellia Association, giving Georgia exhibitors a looksee as to why his personal collection of camellias is valued at $40,000.

But while a visitor from the sunnier climes of South Georgia was getting a corner on the total prizes, Mrs. Samuel C. Porter, of Atlanta, won the most coveted prize of the show—the Buckley Bronze Medal, given by the Garden Club of America through the Peachtree Garden Club.

The icy, rainy weather which Atlanta has endured since October didn't stop Mrs. Porter. She, as most Atlanta exhibitors did, turned to growing the blooms under glass. And besides the Medal, Mrs. Porter won the prize for the best camellia grown under glass.

Rain and tumbling temperatures failed to halt attendance at the Biltmore show. From all over Georgia, flower lovers came to look and be thrilled. Half an hour before the show opened, hopeful spectators had filled the foyer leading to the Georgian Ballroom and were rapidly overflowing the main lobby.

By the end of the day, some 5,000 heavily overcoated and galoshed flower lovers had braved icy winds to see what exhibitors and spectators alike pronounced the most beautiful flower show they had ever seen, and certainly the most gorgeous array of this Deep South flower ever assembled under one roof in Atlanta.

Displays included hundreds of specimen blossoms grown by both amateurs and professionals, an array of old-fashioned fans decorated with camellias, done by local Garden Club members: flower prints done by artist members of the group, with real camellias outdoing oils in artistry; and a hat bar of New Look hats fashioned of camellias, in which millinery minded garden club members almost out-Dache'd Lilly.

Mrs. Laurie Davis Webster, General Chairman of the show, expressed surprise and delight over the number of exhibits submitted, explaining that unseasonable weather had all but persuaded the Show Committee a week ago that the show could not be held at all.

Amateur and professional growers from all over Georgia, Florida and Alabama exhibited many fine specimens, both from their hot houses and their nurseries.

One of the most enthusiastic out-of-town exhibitors, K. Sawada, of Mobile, a naturalized Japanese who has been specializing in this field of horticulture for many years, expressed amazement over local interest in the culture of this tropical flower.

Other awards in the horticultural class were as follows: Best white bloom in show, Mrs. Erwin Catts; second best white bloom in show, R. B. Wilby; best camellia grown in open, Mrs. T. J. Smith, of McRae; best collection of six blossoms grown indoors, Mrs. Samuel C. Porter; best col-

YOUTH, 22, SOUGHT

Girl, 14, Abducted After Wedding Bells

State Patrol and Atlanta police officers drew a dragnet around Fort Valley Tuesday night, searching for a 22-year-old man accused of abducting a pretty South Georgia high school girl 15 minutes after her marriage last Friday.

According to Sheriff L. L. Taylor, a telephone call believed to have been from 14-year-old Mildred Aspinwall Teston, of Bristol, was received by police in her home town Tuesday night.

The young married girl spoke only a few words when the phone apparently was snatched from her hand, police said. The call was traced to Fort Valley.

Sheriff Taylor said the girl and Doniver Teston, an 18-year-old farm youth, had hired James B. Davis, 22, an employee for a road contractor, to drive the pair from Bristol to Alma Friday, where they could marry.

The ceremony was performed and the trio returning to Bristol when Davis suggested stopping at a filling station for a soft drink, Taylor said. As the husband got out of the car, Davis rode off with his bride.

The Sheriff said a warrant for Davis' arrest had been sworn out in Pierce County, charging him with kidnaping and larceny.

The larceny charge involved theft of a Georgia license plate, C-50228, which Sheriff Taylor said Davis had on his car. His car was described as a black 1937 Chevrolet coupe.

Sheriff Taylor said Davis is thought to have a 1947 California license tag in his car (5B652). Davis, he said, originally came from California and had been working in the Bristol area only a short time.

The missing girl was described by Taylor as being four feet, eight inches tall, weighing 150 pounds, having a petite build, blonde hair and blue eyes and to be "very attractive."

Rescue Craft Racing To Aid Stricken Ship

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(INS)—Four ships and an airplane raced to the aid Tuesday night of 44 men aboard the American Freighter Pierre S. DuPont, whose hull was cracked by battering North Atlantic waves 800 miles off the coast of Newfoundland.

Another ship in the same area, the 3,535-ton British Freighter Clunepark, radioed to New York she was having difficulty due to a loose propeller.

The Clunepark master did not ask for aid, but said in an advisory message he might need help later.

The Coast Guard in New York said the master radioed later it appeared he could make port safely.

The U. S. Lines' DuPont, en route from France, flashed word at first she was taking water fast.

One Coast Guard ship left Newfoundland to aid the stricken ship, and a plane also hopped off to scout the area, locate the ship and guide rescuers to the spot.

Three other ships, the Norwalk Victory, the Thomas M. Cooley and the Norwegian ship Brott, were reported standing by in the general vicinity.

Engine-Room Blast Rocks Tanker in N. Y. Harbor

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Feb. 10—(AP)—The 500-ton tanker Richmond, freshly loaded with 252,000 gallons of fuel oil, was rocked by an engine-room blast Tuesday as she moved out into busy New York Harbor, close to the Statue of Liberty.

The explosion injured two crew members and threw a scare into the skippers of the numerous other craft passing in the harbor. The tanker sounded a general alarm signal, summoning assistance from police and fire boats and the Coast Guard.

NEWS STORY SPURS AID

Stricken Child 'Rich' After Atlantans' Help

By CELESTINE SIBLEY

Martha Jean Hudson, born a spastic cripple, the daughter of a low-salaried laboring man, is a rich little girl today.

The term is her mother's.

"I'll say she's rich!" declared Mrs. Willie Hudson, hugging her frail little girl in her delight. "Look at these carriages! Last week everywhere she went we had to carry her in our arms. Now she has more carriages than any little rich girl I ever heard of! And friends . . . look at the letters from people who offer help and friendship!"

The Hudsons' little two-room apartment at 768 Parkway Dr., N. E., now revolves around choice of three carriages which kindly Atlantans gave Martha Jean after reading a Constitution story of her need.

Scores of other carriages were offered, some of them from the parents of other spastic children who have outgrown carriages. Mrs. Hudson took the first three that were offered and is going to try them all out to decide which is the more comfortable for Martha Jean. The others she declined with thanks.

"I can't thank the people enough," protested Mrs. Hudson, "but maybe some day Martha Jean can."

Officials of Aidmore also called offering the little girl facilities of the hospital.

Need of Relief Increase In Fulton, DeKalb Cited

Approximately 4,000 children in the Atlanta area are ill-clothed, undernourished and even on the verge of starvation because of inadequate relief funds in Fulton and DeKalb counties, three welfare leaders told the Atlanta Civitan Club Tuesday.

"While we are asked to relieve starvation abroad," said Wellborn Ellis, Administrator of the Fulton County Department of Public Welfare, "children in our own midst actually are not getting enough to eat."

Ellis' dark picture of the unmet needs" in Greater Atlanta was substantiated by Mrs. Caroline Clarke, Director of DeKalb County Public Welfare; Miss Angela Cox, Executive Director of the Family Service Society, and Raimundo de Ovies, Dean Emeritus of St. Philip's Cathedral.

Ellis said he had been "crying on the shoulder" of the County Manager and the Grand Jury in an effort to get at least $190,000 more for relief purposes.

Mrs. Clark described several cases in which worthy families received "miserably inadequate allotments."

She pointed out the Aid to Dependent Children or (ADC) law, which provides Federal, State and County funds to children of broken homes—allows a maximum of $24 a month for the first child and $15 for each additional child.

Thus, she said, a mother and three dependent children can receive only $54 a month.

"Can you imagine," she asked, "supporting a family of four in these days of soaring costs on $54 a month?"

She said one father with advanced tuberculosis—too "far gone" to be admitted to the State Sanatorium—was working in a grocery store because his wife and three little girls could not live on the $54 they would receive. She pointed out the ill working man could infect many others, thereby costing the taxpayers much more in the end than an adequate allotment would entail.

Mrs. Clarke said the question should not be, "Can we afford adequate relief?" Rather it should be, "Can we afford inadequate relief?"

Mrs. Clarke stressed Grady Hospital doctors have estimated 50 percent of the patients who come to their clinics are suffering from malnutrition.

Miss Cox backed up the contention of Ellis and Mrs. Clarke that there actually are hungry and starving people in this community. She emphasized that these hungry children are Atlanta's citizens of the future—and not very good citizens if they continue to be improperly nourished.

Dean de Ovies termed the inadequate relief situation "our most pressing problem in Atlanta today."

Philly Strike Is Deferred

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10—(UP)—Members of the Transport Workers' Union (CIO) Tuesday night voted to postpone until Sunday midnight a strike on the city's huge public transportation system in demand of a wage increase.

The last-minute action, coming two hours before 11,000 transit workers were scheduled to walk off their jobs, was taken at an emergency meeting of 2,000 union members.

The workers agreed not to strike at midnight upon the recommendation of the board of directors of the Union Local 234.

Union officials said negotiations for a new contract would continue, with representatives of the Union and the Philadelphia Transportation Company meeting with Mayor Bernard Samuel in City Hall Wednesday morning.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 10—(AP)—A source close to the Danish royal family said Tuesday that Prince Harald, 71, brother of the late King Christian, is suffering from pneumonia. His general condition was described as "not too promising."

Grains Tumble Limit; Livestock Prices Slip

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(UP)—Grain and cotton prices plunged the permissible limits and livestock prices slipped lower Tuesday, paving the way for further retail price cuts at groceries and butcher shops.

Almost all corn, wheat, oats and soybeans sold on the Nation's grain exchanges nosedived in the fourth big grain price break within six days.

Stocks and bonds also hit the skids and the New York Stock Market touched the lowest level since mid-June, 1947, on losses of one to around three points. Cotton at New York dropped the permissible limit of 200 points—or $10 a bale—for a day's trading. Light buying just before the close advanced cotton a few points above the extreme lows.

The stock market break wiped out more than a billion dollars in valuation of listed issues.

The tumbling prices were good news for housewives. An imposing list of retailers across the Nation already had cut prices on pork, beef, flour, bread, butter, lard and many other food items.

On the Chicago Board of Trade, the world's largest grain mart, all grain futures dropped the limit except November soybeans, in which there was no trade. At Kansas City all wheat futures dropped the full 10-cent per bushel limit, and all corn futures dropped the eight-cent limit. At Minneapolis, wheat, oats and rye were down the limit.

May wheat, which hit an all-time peak of $3.06½ cents on Jan. 16, dropped to $2.47 a bushel in Chicago Tuesday—a drop of 59½ cents in three weeks. May corn, which sold at an all-time high of $2.70¾ a bushel Jan. 16, sank to $2.13½ today—a drop of 57½ cents in three weeks.

Butter prices dropped ½ to two cents a pound on the New York wholesale market. If the decline continues, further reductions in retail prices can be expected within a few days.

The daily price index of 30 basic commodities, compiled by Dun Bradstreet, broke to a new 1948 low of 278.93. The Index Monday was 283.83. Tuesday's index marked a drop of 29.89 from the 1948 high of 308.82 on Jan. 16.

Farmers appeared to have succeeded in checking, at least temporarily, the sharp price break in the livestock market by holding

ALL THE WORLD'S A STAGE

And Here Is What Came Upon It

Snow Blessing to This Barefoot Boy

McKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 10—(AP)—Strangers blink at the sight, but neighbors of John Myczka, 47-year-old steel mill worker, know why he shovels snow in his bare feet.

As Myczka explained Tuesday, he helps lift big loads of metal day in and day out.

The heavy lifting and walking give him the "hotfoot" at the end of the day.

"Often my feet feel like there is a charge of electricity running through them," the brawny, 200-pound steel worker said.

Various treatments failed to cool off his hot tootsies, he related. Even changing sizes and types of workshoes gave him no relief—until he hit upon the idea of immersing them in snow. The effect was wonderful.

"Just like walking on feathers!" he gushed.

Perhaps They'll Ask Proof

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—"A hair of the dog that bit you" is what the doctor orders for that morning-after headache.

That prescription came from Dr. Henry L. Williams, of the Mayo Foundation, University of Minnesota, Rochester.

Dr. Williams told the opening session of the 59th Mid-South Post Graduate Medical Assembly here that "about the best thing for a hangover is another drink the next morning."

"Most prohibitionists are those individuals who have very severe types of hangover headaches," the medical school professor said. Dr. Williams added: "I don't know anyone who is subject to them who takes a drink."

Operation Odorless Unwatched

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—(AP)—A perfume manufacturer attempted, for obvious reasons, to precipitate a sweet-scented snowfall over this city.

A plane sprinkled 50 pounds of perfumed "dry ice" in clouds above the city. No snow fell.

What did fall was a wrist watch, whipped off the arm of a passenger who stuck his hand out a window in the plane.

Undiscouraged, the promoters of the stunt said they would try it again in Washington and in Chicago.

Turn-About Hasn't Fair Play

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—While King Gasparilla was "invading" Tampa in fun his own house was being pillaged—and it wasn't in fun.

Sheriff Hugh Culbreath said a thief entered the residence of Neil McMullen, King of the Pirates, and took jewelry and $10 from a piggie bank.

The robbery occurred as McMullen led the Gasparilla invasion and parade in downtown Tampa, as a feature of the annual State Fair.

This Is an Oil Story

PHILADELPHIA—(UP)—The driver of a fuel oil truck pulled up to the Pen-Mar Apartments and pumped 200 gallons into the intake pipe.

Shortly after he left, 20 tenants in the building woke up choking from fumes. An investigation showed the cellar flooded with oil.

A new oil tank had been installed in the building and the intake had not yet been connected, but no one had bothered to tell the delivery man.

Plane Crashes At Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—The Navy Public Information Office said Tuesday night a PBM Martin Mariner with 11 men aboard crashed near Jacksonville as it was about to begin a ground controlled approach landing.

The Navy said other details were not available immediately.

SO THERE!

I've Said It, And I'm Glad

Yes, I have a gripe and it is about the law forcing children to go to school. Don't get me wrong, I really believe all children should go to school, but it gripes me most because they won't force a law to make them fix the roads so school busses can go through. They ought to think about fixing roads so children won't have to walk a mile to the bus.

My children have to walk a mile to the bus in all kinds of weather, rain or snow it doesn't matter, so I believe the school board should get together and gripe enough to fix a way for busses to travel.

MRS. LILLIE MAE MORRIS.
Route 1, Toccoa, Ga.

And do you, too, have a gripe? Send it to "The Gripe Editor," The Atlanta Constitution, P. O. Box 4357, Atlanta 2, Ga., and we'll help you get it off your chest. But keep it short—not more than 150 words.

NEW SKIRT LENGTH? 'I DON'T LIKE IT'

Mary Pickford Tells Wives Her Rule: Let 'Him' Play Golf

By KATHERINE BARNWELL

Mary Pickford's recipe for a happy marriage: "Let him play golf when he wants to."

America's erstwhile "Sweetheart," who claims her 11 blissful years of marriage to Buddy Rogers "seems like just a minute," had other bits of advice to offer her sex Tuesday during a three-hour stopover in Atlanta.

Let him fly when he wants to."

Miss Pickford explained that those were the special interests of her band-leading spouse—but added they could be applied to almost any hubby's hobby.

"In other words," she pursued, "don't try to interfere too much with his doing the things he likes to do."

And then, the blonde ex-movie queen continued, a couple should find "mutual interests."

"For Buddy and me," she smiled, twinkling her blue eyes, "those common interests are the movies and our children."

Although both Mary and Buddy once outshone all other Hollywood stars on the screen, their movie activities now are confined to producing pictures. And it's "just as interesting," declared Mary.

Their children include an 11-year-old boy and a five-year-old girl—both adopted—as well as a young Belgian war orphan who is their "foster" child.

"He has gone back to Belgium, now," said Miss Pickford, explaining there had been a lot of "red tape" about adopting him in this country. "But whether he stays there or comes here, we will continue to look after his education and all his needs."

Clad in a long brown crepe dress, a mink coat, a brown off-the-face hat and a swirling chiffon scarf, Miss Pickford's "new look" was impeccable—but she declared bluntly:

"I don't like it." She pulled up her hemline about three inches and demanded insistently: "Now, doesn't that look much better on a short person like me?"

Miss Pickford came through Atlanta en route from New Orleans to Palm Beach, Fla., where she was scheduled to participate in a benefit for cancer research. The round-about route, she said was due to the United Airlines strike.

Before leaving the Henry Grady Hotel, where she stopped briefly, she went by to speak to the hotel's telephone operators.

Mrs. Lucille Ammons told the former star: "You look just like you did when you were in pictures."

In answer to that, Miss Pickford said, "You're sweet," blew her a kiss and departed.

How Healing Came for One Through Christian Science

A minister, long on leave from his charge because of illness, called one day at a Christian Science Reading Room, and went home with a copy of "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. After reading the first sentence of the first chapter, he thought, "Whoever wrote this had been very close to God."

He read on for several hours with such a sense of unfolding understanding as he had not known before, and then became aware that he was well. The healing was complete and permanent.

At any Christian Science Reading Room, the Bible, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (containing the complete explanation of Christian Science and its healing work), and other Christian Science literature may be read, borrowed, or purchased.

'CANVASS RACKET'

Watch Doors, Police Warn

When a City Directory canvasser knocks at your door, be sure to ask him for his credentials.

That's the word from B. W. McClelland, Production Supervisor of Atlanta City Directory Company, which is making its 1948 survey of all persons of this area over 18.

"There has been a wave of robberies in the Northeast and Northwest sections," McClelland explained, "and housewives have been phoning us for descriptions of suspicious-looking canvassers after they already have given them information. The housewife should demand an identification card before she gives out any data."

McClelland said one authentic enumerator was stopped four times by the police, who were looking for a burglar.

"We'll be canvassing the City through the middle of May," he added, "so every Atlantan should play safe—and ask to see our worker's identification card."

School Plan Of South for All---Caldwell

TAMPA, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—The South's new regional school plan is designed to meet a general need rather than to solve the problem of adequate higher education for Negroes, Florida Gov. Millard E. Caldwell said here Tuesday.

The recent Southern Governors' Conference at Tallahassee drew up a program to establish regional colleges, supported by all Southern States, to provide training in fields in which it is impractical for each State to maintain its own school.

Speaking at the annual luncheon held in connection with Governor's Day at the Florida State Fair, Caldwell said:

"Too many people apparently believe the regional school idea was designed to meet the situation created by recent Supreme Court decisions calling for equal educational rights for Negroes. . . . So far as I am concerned, Negro education is a mere incident. What we are discussing is education, period; not Negro education or white education."

Caldwell said he expected the plan would meet the needs of Negroes seeking higher education, but regardless of the racial aspect the Southern States should combine to do together what they cannot do separately.

"The South often has been accused of wasting its material resources, but it is just as guilty of wasting human resources when its most progressive youth has to go North to obtain adequate training in many technical branches and remains in the North to the South's loss," he said.

"The phrase 'elementary college education' expresses what we have been doing in the South," the Governor said.

STRALLA STRAFED

Tony Rated Even Bet To Live

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 10—(AP)—Big-time Gambler Tony Stralla is an even money bet to survive the gangland-style shooting that left him crumpled in his doorway, a physician said Tuesday.

The 48-year-old "Little Admiral," who once operated lavish gambling vessels off the Southern California Coast, was blasted with a single pistol shot in his Beverly Hills home Monday night.

His assailant, concealing the pistol behind a package, which proved to be an empty cardboard box, fired through it and Stralla fell, shouting for visitors to bring him his gun. The bullet pierced his abdomen.

"He lost a huge amount of blood," explained Dr. Marcus H. Rabwin, his physician. "His chance for life is about 50 percent."

Police Chief C. H. Anderson, of Beverly Hills, questioned several men with underworld connections and said:

"If we learn anything from them, we'll talk to lots of people later."

In the house at the time were Stralla's attractive young wife, the former actress, Barbara Land, and two Mexican businessmen.

These men, described by Anderson as legitimate businessmen, told authorities they had been conferring with Stralla on a plan to purchase two war surplus cargo planes with which to operate a food-shipping line between Zacatecas and Mexico City.

But police were scrutinizing a theory that the attack may have resulted from arrangements Stralla may have been attempting to make to operate gambling enterprises in Baja, California. They added that great pressure had been exerted recently for relaxation of Mexico's anti-gambling laws.

In Tijuana, Mex., just below the border from San Diego, it was recalled that the newspaper El Imparcial recently carried a headline saying "Gambling But Without Cornero." Stralla usually used Cornero as a surname.

Stralla was questioned briefly by police, and Anderson declared he was "evasive," and denied knowing anyone who wanted to kill him.

Vandal Cases Await Fate

Five youths, members of socially prominent Atlanta families, will learn at 3 p. m. today what punishment will be meted out to them by the City Court of Decatur on charges of vandalism, to which they pleaded guilty Tuesday.

Judge D. P. Phillips, who heard the boys plead guilty and heard character witnesses and experts on juvenile affairs urge that the youths be given strict probationary sentences instead of jail terms, deferred sentencing until today. Because of the seriousness of the situation, Judg Phillips said, he did not want to exercise snap judgment.

One of the youths, Danny Payne, of 1143 Briarcliff Rd., N. E., pleaded guilty to five misdemeanor counts of malicious mischief and one of carrying a pistol without a license. Leonard Haas, 888 Oakdale Rd.; J. E. Evans, Jr., 2323 Westminster Dr., N. E., and Harold Ferst, of 1363 Springdale Rd., N. E., each pleaded guilty to five counts of malicious mischief. Ulysses Seal, of 87 Westminster Way, N. E., not charged with malicious mischief, pleaded guilty to one count of simple larceny involving the theft of automobile hub caps.

The charges were the result of the youths' arrest early in January on charges of releasing brakes on parked automobiles in North Atlanta, causing the autos to plunge down hills and wreck to the tune of an estimated total damage of $8,000. Similar indictments against the boys have been filed in Fulton County.

The State's case in the DeKalb County charges was presented Tuesday by Sol. Walter McCurdy.

THE TROUBLED WORLD

Arabs' Lash at Jewish Quarter Beaten as British Come to Aid

JERUSALEM, Feb. 10—(AP)—An Arab attempt to smash into a Jewish quarter Tuesday resulted in one of the worst battles in Jerusalem.

It ended only when two companies of British infantry intervened.

The Palestine Government said six Arabs, one Jew and one British soldier were killed in daylong fighting in Montefiore quarter. The wounded included 20 Arabs, six Jews and one British soldier.

Earlier an Arab source had put the casualties at four Arabs killed and seven wounded and eight Jews killed and 14 wounded. British troops stood guard in Montefiore Tuesday night.

Violence raged elsewhere. A Government announcement said a group of Jews marched seven Arabs into an orange grove in the Tulkarm district north of Jerusalem and mowed them down with machinegun fire. The Arabs were returning to their village after attending a cattle sale.

In Haifa one Jew was killed and three Jews and four Arabs wounded.

The unofficial death toll since the Nov. 29 decision of the United Nations to partition Palestine mounted to 1,118.

BRITONS GOING BROKE

LONDON — (AP) — Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told Britons again they are in danger of going broke.

In a Government white paper he gave the figures on the "menacing" gap between the country's income from exports and outlay for imports.

The total net drain on sterling area funds to fill the gap in 1947 was 1,023,000,000 pounds ($4,092,000,000).

Drained out were 151,000,000 pounds ($604,000,000) from the last-ditch gold and dollar reserves, the last resource standing between Britain and national bankruptcy.

VOTES AI PLAN HEAD

WASHINGTON — (UP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted to put the European recovery program under an administrator independent of the State Department but subject to orders from President Truman.

MARSHALL PLAN HITS SNAG

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Marshall Plan got into domestic politics on two fronts today.

Sen. Reed, Republican, Kansas, said Republican hopes for victory in November may be dashed if the European recovery program falls through and "President Truman could hang the responsibility on the Republican party."

Henry A. Wallace, third party Presidential candidate and a declared foe of the Marshall Plan, asked permission to give his views to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. He was invited to testify Feb. 18.

These developments came as the State Department disclosed that France is getting more than half of the food, fuel and other supplies going to Europe under the $522,000,000 stopgap aid program voted by Congress last December.

The first breakdown on the "pre-Marshall Plan" shipments showed France's share to be $284,000,000, with $181,000,000 going to Italy and $57,000,000 to Austria.

GUERRILLA FIRE KILLS 4

SALONIKA, Greece — (UP)—Greek guerrillas fired heavy artillery and mortar shells into this port city of 250,000 for 90 minutes, killing four persons, including a British soldier. But within a few hours they were trapped by Government soldiers and they appeared doomed to defeat.

Four American staff observers were in the thick of the battle as the Greek Army closed in on the attackers six miles Southeast of Salonika, but none was wounded.

ON THE LABOR FRONT

Failure To File 'Pledge' Ruled No Bargaining Bar

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—The National Labor Relations Board Tuesday ruled that failure of a local union's officers to file required non-Communist affidavits was no bar to its parent national union seeking bargaining rights.

The ruling came in a case involving bargaining election proceedings at the Warshawsky and Company, Chicago.

Two unions competed in an election last July for the right to represent the Company's workers. They were the CIO Auto Workers and the International Association of Machinists (Ind.). The election ended in a 25-25 tie.

The CIO union then asked for a runoff. The Taft-Hartley Act provision barring unions whose officers fail to file the non-Communist oaths had become effective, however.

FLIGHTS RESCHEDULED

MIAMI — (UP) — National Airlines announced it would resume scheduled lights Wednesday, one week after the line's 145 pilots went out on a strike that led to their discharge.

Airline officials said the number of flights would be increased as soon as a new force of licensed pilots qualify before Civil Aeronautics Authority examiners.

All 22 of the Airline's planes were grounded when the pilots, members of the Air Line Pilots Association (AFL), struck over safety maintenance of planes and pilot-management relations.

The company later entered a $5,000,000 libel suit against the Pilots' Association over the safety charge in its strike notice. Since then it has been hiring non-union pilots.

ITU SPIKES "RUMOR"

CHICAGO—(AP) — A spokesman for an organization of job printing shops said AFL printers in four major shops had refused to handle advertisements for Chicago's struck newspapers, but the International President of the Union said the report was "only rumors."

Cy MacKinnon, General Manager of the Franklin Association, a group of job printing companies here, said he was informed representatives of Local 16 of the AFL Chicago Typographical Union went to the four shops and called union meetings. He said the refusal to handle newspaper ads followed the visit.

At Indianapolis, however, Woodruff Randolph, President of the ITU, said "the story is wholly untrue. It was only rumors dissesminated by MacKinnon."

MacKinnon declined to comment on Randolph's statement, but he said "there's not a piece of newspaper stuff moving in the shops that were visited."

Parents Advised On Baby Handling

CHICAGO, Feb. 10—(AP)—Babies placed on their stomachs to relieve gas pressures due to indigestion face the danger of developing improperly formed jaws, a Berkeley, Cal., dentist said Tuesday.

In a paper prepared for the Chicago Dental Society, Dr. George W. Hahn, of Berkeley, said there are some orthodontists "who feel that high cuspids are a result of these habits."

He also said that thumb sucking in infancy was responsible for some "horrible deformities."

Seeing Is Believing

ST. LOUIS—(UP)—A chiropractor submitted proof positive with his 1947 income tax report to the Internal Revenue office here. He attached to the return a 1947 calendar on which he had jotted down the expenses of each day as they occurred.

HE WRITES AS HE PLEASES

Success 'Happy Accident' To Ben Ames Williams

Ben Ames Williams, the prolific and best-selling author of such books as "Leave Her to Heaven," "Strange Women" and more recently, "House Divided," writes as he pleases and accepts popularity as a "happy incident."

The first, writing as he pleases, is a prerequisite to Author Williams' secret of happiness, which, he maintains, is simply "doing what you can the best you can." The second, that happy accident of popularity, is the reason Author Williams' works stay at the top of the best-seller lists and he and gracious Mrs. Williams happen to be in Atlanta.

"Last May—after 'House Divided'—we declared a year's vacation," explained Williams, "and this is part of it."

The couple, parents of Roger Williams, who used to spend considerable time in Atlanta as Houghton-Mifflin's sales representative, has just returned from a visit to Sea Island with Mr. and Mrs. Francis L. Abreu. They are on their way to Camden, S. C., and thence to Bermuda, New York and Boston.

"We've never been to Bermuda," put in Mrs. Williams. "We're looking forward to it very much—but, I've told our family doctor, I don't know which is more hectic, being with Ben while he's working or while he's relaxing."

Williams, a Mississippi-born newspaperman turned fictionist, wrote 83 stories before he sold his first back in 1914. Two years later he quit newspapering and turned to fiction as a career.

Princely State Taken Over In Gandhi Slaying Probe

NEW DELHI, Feb. 10—(AP)—The Indian Government took over administration of a second princely state Tuesday in its investigation of the Gandhi assassination.

An announcement said the Maharajah of Bharatpur, in the Eastern Rajputana, had been personally confronted with "prima facie evidence of complicity of the Bharatpur administration" in activities of the RSSS (Rashtriya Swayam Sevak Sangh), outlawed Hindu National Volunteer Corps.

The Maharajah was "shocked" at the report, a communique said, and consented to appointment of a temporary administrator so that an unimpeded investigation could be made into activities of the RSSS and the assassination of Mohandas Gandhi.

Bharatpur adjoins on the East the princely state of Alwar, whose administration was taken over Saturday for the same reasons

Bharatupr adjoins on the east miles, has a population of 600,000. Its 30-year-old Hindu ruler narried the youngest sister of the Maharajah of Mysore in 1941.

TWO BODIES OUTLAWED

At the same time the Bombay provincial government announced the outlawing of the Communist "Red Guards" and "Samata Sainik Dal," an organization founded by Dr. B. R. Ambedkar, a minister in the Indian Government and leader of the Untouchables.

S. K. Patil, a member of the Congress Party high command, told a news conference at Bombay that the party planned to form a semi-military volunteer organization, trained by army officers "to defend the country and meet any challenge to the lawfully constituted administrative machinery."

He said the organization would not come under the terms of a "private army" such as is forbidden by the Government. He said it would be organized after consultation with the provincial Government and its members would be required to sign a pledge placing themselves at the state's service.

FINAL GANDHI RITES

At 3 a. m. Wednesday the funeral urn, containing the ashes of Gandhi, will be moved by motor car from the Birla mansion and placed aboard the special train that will carry it to Allahabad.

Perhaps 1,000,000 persons will witness the immersing of the ashes in the confluence of the Ganges, Jumna and Saraswati Rivers on Thursday at Triveni Sangham.

The funeral party will travel on a train made up of third-class coaches such as Gandhi used in his lifetime when he went on a train journey. There will be a guard of honor. Members of the party will ride on wooden benches and eat only vegetables during the 27-hour trip.

Horse mounted lancers and infantry will escort the urn on the four-mile march from Allahabad station to Triveni Sangham. Devadas, son of Gandhi, will row to a shallow spot in the middle of the river. He will immerse himself and commit the ashes to the water.

ASHES DISTRIBUTED

Bits of the ashes have been distributed to all provinces, and similar rites will be performed at the same time all over India.

Soon after the ceremony the government plans to take up the question of a referendum in Junagadh and other vassal states on the Western Coast whose affiliation is disputed by India and Pakistan.

Junagadh was 85 percent Hindu population, but its Moslem ruler joined Pakistan in mid-September. The Indian government took over the administration following the flight of the ruler to Pakistan. A referendum, which will determine whether the people want to join India or Pakistan, has been scheduled for Feb. 24.

34 Dead, 4 Missing as Fire Destroys Home for Indigent

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Feb. 10—(AP)—Thirty-four persons were officially reported dead and four missing in a fire here Tuesday that destroyed an old people's home.

The Public Health and Welfare Department could account for only five survivors out of the 43 residents. Some of these suffered exposure and frost bite in the subzero cold before they could be taken to shelter.

A 50-mile-an-hour gale fanned the flames out of control in the three-story concrete building, known as Hull House. It was used as a shelter for indigent and infirm persons awaiting admission to a permanent home for the aged.

The origin of the flames was not determined. Firemen struggled repeatedly to gain entrance to the building, formerly a private residence, but were turned back by the flames. They were successful in rescuing about 40 persons from two wooden annex buildings.

Among the missing were Mr. and Mrs. A. Hull, who operated the home for the Government. Attempts were being made to identify charred bodies in the ruins.

Nine bodies were discovered in a single room. Some of the inmates succeeded in reaching windows, but collapsed. Several had suffocated or died of burns in their beds.

The flames lit up the entire city, and its reflection could be seen far out at sea.

It was the worst fire in St. John's since December, 1942, when 100 persons perished in a Knights of Columbus hostel. Most of the victims in that fire were Canadian servicemen.

Two years ago the City Building Inspector and Fire Chief had recommended fire escapes be installed and structural changes made in Hull House to guard against fire.

Another tragic fire occurred Tuesday at Halifax, N. S. Seven persons died when flames swept through a three-story wooden tenement in the slum district. A 12-year-old girl died of a broken back and leg when her father dropped her three stories. The girl's mother leaped. The mother's skull was fractured.

IN THE FIELD OF POLITICS

'Greatest Spender, Taxer,' Taft's Rap at Truman

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Feb. 10—(UP)—Robert A. Taft, Senate Republican leader and Presidential hopeful, charged Tuesday that President Truman has become the "greatest peacetime spender and the greatest peacetime taxer in the history of the world."

He asserted that Mr. Truman, who might be his opponent for the presidency in November, "now demands a strangle hold over all industry, agriculture and commerce."

He made the charge in a speech prepared for delivery before a Republican meeting here, his second address of the day in opening a Midwestern campaign for the GOP nomination.

The Ohio Senator said that Mr. Truman had proposed an "imitation New Deal" with "police state" powers to control the American economy.

"In the first place," he said "the President now demands a strangle hold over all industry, agriculture and commerce. He demands that he be given power in time of peace to impose price controls and wage controls, that some Federal bureau fix the terms of each one of a billion transactions that go on every day in the United States."

REECE, TOO, SEES PERIL

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—(AP)—Carroll Reece, Republican National Committee Chairman, said the prime issue in 1948 is "shall the individual remain the governing power in these United States, or shall a supreme state assume power and control over the people?"

In an address prepared for delivery in his home town at a Lincoln Day dinner, Reece drew a parallel between the danger which threatened the nation in Lincoln's day and the threat of Communism today.

"The situation is even more dangerous than it was in Lincoln's time," he said. "Then the danger was that our nation might be dismembered; today, the threat is to the integrity of the nation as a whole."

TO TALK 'THREAT'

COLUMBIA, S. C.—(AP)—The State Democratic Executive Committee will meet here March 1 for "a full and frank discussion of national Democratic Party policies and aims as they affect the South."

Committee Chairman W. P. Basskir expressed the opinion that state Democrats "will stick together and join in the fight to defeat the President's Civil Rights Program which is calculated to tear down the social, educational and political customs of the South, based on segregation."

Other items to come before the Committee, Baskin said, were reports from party attorneys appealing a Federal District Court ruling that Democratic primaries should be opened to Negroes, and consideration of changes in party rules.

Jap Women Fool Judges Just as--Well..

TOKYO, Feb. 10— (AP) — These wily women!

Police Tuesday hunted one they charged with brazenly talking her way out of a 500,000-yen ($10,000) fraud. They related:

Asako Yano, women's labor chief in a postoffice, altered figures on a 1,200-yen savings certificate and sold it for 801,200 yen. Trapped, she returned 300,000 yen and five packets which she said held the remainder. The packets contained blank paper. Then she disappeared.

At Hiroshima, a judge sentenced an expectant mother to two years for black marketing. She collapsed; complained of severe pains.

The judge reduced the sentence to a 2,000-yen ($40) fine.

The woman quickly arose, paid . . . and strode jauntily away.

CONTRADICTS WINCHELL

White House Says Margaret Not Engaged

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—A report that Margaret Truman is engaged to be married was contradicted Tuesday by the White House.

"The answer is positively no," Charles G. Ross, the President's Press Secretary, said when asked about a report in Walter Winchell's column that she is engaged to Frank Handy, of Ypsilanti, Michigan.

Mrs. Reathel Odum, Secretary to Mrs. Truman, backed him up.

"Definitely not so," she said.

The President's daughter was not available to reporters.

Handy, reached in Chicago, said with the White House denying the report, "I think I'll stand on that."

Earlier, he said that before commenting on the report he would have to make "one or two long distance calls."

Handy was in Chicago for the Winter meeting of the Inland Press Association. His father, G. C. Handy, is publisher of the Ypsilanti Press.

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The Atlanta Board of Education Tuesday:

1. Adopted the 1948 budget calling for an overall outlay of $7,275,326 and providing a seven and one-half percent additional salary bonus for all employees. The budget is the largest in history and compares with an expenditure of $6,736,318 for 1947. A $762,417 capital outlay fund is included to supplement the $9,000,000 bond issue because of high construction costs. The budget will be transmitted to Mayor Hartsfield for his approval.

2. Ordered a single scale of pay for teachers which will place elementary instructors on the same scale as high school teachers at an estimated cost of $17,000 a year.

3. Authorized preparation of detailed plans for two structures which will cost an estimated $425,750. Construction of a new Williams St. School on property adjoining the Techwood-Clark Howell Housing Projects will cost about $350,000, according to preliminary studies. Arthur N. Robinson, Architect, was instructed to prepare detailed plans for 16 classrooms, a library, auditorium and gymnasium. Jennon Perry, Architect, will prepare plans for erection of an auditorium and cafeteria at Slaton School at a cost of approximately $75,750.

4. Ordered W. O. Cheney, Land Agent, to continue to negotiate for land on which to enlarge the Howard (Negro) High School and to erect a new Negro Elementary School in the neighborhood of Irwin Street and Boulevard.

5. Heard a report that Atlanta school children donated $3,309 to the Georgia Polio Drive.

PUBLIC HEARINGS — City Council's Police Committee is slated to hold public hearing at 7:30 p. m. today on two important matters. One deals with a proposal to bar parking in the downtown area and to restrict hours for loading and unloading. The other is a demand by ambulance operators for repeal of a recently approved ordinance making it mandatory that doctors or nurses or a Red Cross trained attendant be employed to answer all emergency calls. A long session of the committee is expected.

EIGHTH ST. WIDENING—City Council's Public Works Committee Thursday will be asked to recommend the widening of Eighth Street from Williams to Spring Streets. Under the plan another 10 feet of roadway will be provided on the north side of the artery.

STREET NAME HEARING—The City Planning Commission will hold another public hearing at 2 p. m. today on a proposal to designate Washington Street, S. W., and Courtland and Juniper Streets, N. E. with one name after the off-set at Courtland and Juniper Streets has been eliminated.

TRAFFIC BOTTLENECK—City Planning Commission members today are slated to consider a petition by the Waggstaff Motor Co., Inc., to zone 200 feet on the South side of Fourth Street, between Williams Street and Techwood Drive for business. The plot lies directly in the path of the proposed new North-South Expressway. The problem has been placed in the laps of the Commission although condemnation proceedings are now being prepared for the rights-of-way for the new artery.

MAYOR'S DAY —Mayor Hartsfield spent most of Tuesday answering correspondence, but he found time to inspect the Speech School and hold several conferences. Former Postmaster E. K. Large, of Atlanta, paid a courtesy call and reminded the Mayor he was postmaster when the first air mail came into Atlanta from Miami in 1926. Large is visiting relatives here. A delegation of East Atlanta ladies sought Hartsfield's help in obtaining a branch of the Carnegie Library for their community and were told to contact members of the Second Ward Delegation in Council. East Atlanta lies in the Second Ward..

GROCER RATINGS — Atlanta grocery stores continue their progress in meeting sanitation standards set by a new grading ordinance. The score Tuesday stood: 528 "As," or 46.4 percent, the highest rating obtainable; 505 "Bs," or 44.41 percent, second highest, and 104 "Cs," or 9.15 percent. Those having "C" ratings must become "Bs" within 30 days or cease to operate.

WATER IMPROVEMENTS—Installation of the first giant water storage tank will be proposed at a meeting of City Council's Water Committee this afternoon when Waterworks Gen. Mgr. Paul Weir asks approval of a $300,0000 improvement for the Sandy Springs area. The seven-mile extension of existing mains will range from 12 to 16 inches in diameter, extending out Mt. Paran Road to Roswell Road and thence to Sandy Springs. A small pumping station will be installed near Mt. Paran and Roswell Roads and a gravity tank will be erected to provide needed pressure. The improvement was announced several months ago when Atlanta and Fulton County agreed on a joint financing program. Weir said several other storage tanks were planned for the city proper.

MEETINGS SWITCHED — The City Personnel Board has changed its meeting dates to conform with the scheduled meetings of Council's Finance Committee. It will meet twice monthly—at 11 a. m. on the Tuesday before the first and third Mondays of each month. The Board Tuesday approved addition of one employee in the Comptroller's office and the reclassification of one post in the City Hall and another in the Police Department.

FOR POSTERITY—Roy Elrod, employee of the City Prison Department, has made it easy for Atlanta citizens of 2048 to know what happened when Atlanta officially became 100 years old, last Feb. 2. Council minutes have been transcribed in old English and have been filed in city archives. The task required more than 15 hours of work.

AQUARIAN — Atlanta's Water Department is establishing an aquarian in the City Hall office. No fish have yet appeared, but some water plants have been "planted" in the attractive enclosure. The fish will come later, office attaches say.

Prices Hold In Cattle Sales Here

Despite the sharp price plunge in the Chicago market, beef on the hoof remained firm in Atlanta auction sales Tuesday, the first since the market break last Friday.

Buyers attributed the local price steadiness to the scarcity of cattle, usually prevalent in this section at this time of the year. Short supply was even more pronounced Tuesday because unusually bad roads in the rural areas prevented many farmers from bringing livestock to market.

The cattle sales here Tuesday were lighter than they have been in weeks, contrary to the situation in the Middlewest, where unprecedented selling was reported Monday.

While the price of beef remained firm, the price of hogs hit the toboggan in the local market. Buyers reported a decline of from 1½ to 2 cents per pound Tuesday. The drop since Friday was reported at 6 cents.

Rome, a North Georgia cattle center, reported a similar steady price in cattle, but at Moultrie, one of South Georgia's largest livestock centers, prices declined about 2 cents a pound on cattle after an unprecedented hog price drop Monday of 3 cents per pound. The price of hogs at Moultrie has dropped 8 cents since Jan. 17.

Despite the steady price of cattle-on-the-hoof in Atlanta, decisive savings were being reflected in most meat lines. Particularly pork and lard products.

Wholesalers reported general declines in pork and lard items of from 4 to 6 cents per pound.

The declines were slower in reaching the retailers, however.

Beef was holding steadier than pork, but in some retail quarters it was off from four to eight cents per pound. The general wholesale reduction in Atlanta, however, was one cent per pound.

Butter was off from two to three cents, sugar one cent on the five-pound bag, and flour from 10 to 25 cents on the 25-pound bag.

BEFORE LENTEN SOBRIETY

Gray Skies Fail To Curb Rollicking Mardi Gras

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 10—(AP)—The sky was gray and the air was chill, but New Orleans threw as wacky a Mardi Gras as ever Tuesday before settling down for Wednesday's Lenten sobriety.

People by hundreds of thousands crowded the downtown section to show off fancy, funny or fantastic costumes, take one another's pictures, stomp on one another's insteps, and shout for trinkets thrown from parade floats.

There were little girls in hoop skirts, women in witches' hats and wigs, men in sheiks' robes, and people in hundreds of other kinds of costumes.

Groups of frolickers spread picnic lunches in the middle of crowded streets. The throngs surged unprotesting around them.

Couples danced in the streets to music blared from loudspeakers on store buildings, from portable radios, or from jazz bands riding in trucks.

The crowd was a little later than usual in filling the streets, because of an overcast sky and a nip in the air following an early-morning temperature dip into the thirties.

But there was no rain, and the mercury struggled upward. By the time the parades came downtown the police had to clear a lane through solid humanity.

First came Rex, lord of misrule and King of Carnival, leading 20 mule-drawn floats. This year's monarch was Dr. Alton Ochsner, internationally famed surgeon.

He stopped his parade at the swank Boston Club to toast his Queen, Debutante Elizabeth Lee Nicholson, a Newcomb College art student.

Tuesday night they reigned together over the ball of the Rex organization.

Behind Rex came scores of decorated trucks with costumed maskers.

Meanwhile the painted, spear-bearing warriors of the Negroes' Zulu King were escorting their monarch on a winding safari lasting many hours.

Tuesday night the Krewe of Comus held a torchlight float parade.

Everyone knows where this one's going

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

No, it hasn't always been easy, here of late, to be absolutely sure just which way automobile design was heading.

So it's a refreshing thing, people tell us, to see one car that quite clearly knows where it's going – and shows it inside and out.

You can't mistake this poised and ready fashion plate for anything but a Buick – you're sure from a glance that you'll find it steady as a battle cruiser and full of ginger as one of Grandma's cookies.

Your eye tells you it's big – you step in and find this bigness carried out in usable room as well as measurable inches.

A broad bonnet promises plenty-power – and you get it with such velvety new smoothness that you need to check the battery-charge needle to make sure the engine's running.

*No gears ever shift in DYNAFLOW DRIVE

In Buick's new Dynaflow Drive, sliding gear transmissions and complex gear-changers are made unnecessary. You simply set a selector lever and step on the gas. The power plant does the rest, adjusting itself to varying driving conditions with utter smoothness. You start up – accelerate – climb hills – cruise – stop – start up again – all without touching the selector lever.

You size it up as comfortable. The road's verdict is that it's the most tireless car on the market, what with four coil springs, pillowy low-pressure tires and a wholly new attack on car vibration keeping you fresh and relaxed through the longest day.

You find quiet here – quiet that encourages conversation – quiet from Sound-Sorber top lining that invites conversation in normal tones.

And if it's a Dynaflow Roadmaster you're handling, here you can sample driving ease that is near magic in its simplicity.*

You set a lever, press the gas treadle – and simply steer. The power plant does all the rest – swoops you up from standstill to full pace, accelerates, climbs, slows to a stop, starts up again – all without any gearshifting, either manual or automatic!

So it's pretty plain where this one's heading – it's going even higher in the regard of the motoring public.

Why not see your Buick dealer now and get your order in?

1,500 CHEER SINGERS

Civic Chorus Debut Rated Big Success

By HOWELL JONES

A small, but wildly enthusiastic audience of 1,500, Tuesday night came to its feet to cheer the reborn Atlanta Civic Chorus in its debut at Glenn Memorial Auditorium.

The audience's reaction to the spirited and inspiring singing of the chorus was spontaneous. It formed an anti-climax to a program that was climaxed by the 200-voice Chorus' interpretation of the "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's oratorio "The Messiah."

The ovation was well-earned.

Singing with the poise and artistry of a group much older in experience and training, the Chorus added its name to Atlanta's roster of musical organizations in bold, black letters.

Henry Sopkin, Conductor of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, directed the group in its first concert. The distinguished maestro wove many delicate patterns of tone color from the well-balanced organization. He won acclaim from both the audience and the Chorus for his work.

Composed of clerks, stenographers, housewives, musicians, businessmen and professional men, the Chorus sings for the fun of it. The result of their vocal efforts proves beyond doubt they—as well as the audience—really enjoy it.

The Chorus was formed by the Georgia Chapter, American Guild of Organists and the Atlanta Music Club. Its predecessor, formed several years ago, was disbanded during the war years.

Tuesday's concert was presented as a feature of the Emory University Lecture Series, and as the February program of the Atlanta Music Club's Informal Series.

The program was opened with Bach's "Festival Prelude." "Agnus Dei," by Morley," "Ye Watchers and Ye Holy Ones," and three selections from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" followed.

After intermission, the Chorus sang "Praise," by Rowley, "Turn Back O Man," by Holst, "Bow Down Thine Eyes," and "O God, Beneath Thy Guiding Hand," by Tallis-Loftin.

The Chorus will be presented in its second concert at 8:15 p. m. onight at Glenn Memorial Auditorium. The concert will be free.

GAS TAX REFUND — Georgia Supreme Court declined to rule Tuesday whether the State Government must pay a two percent tax discount to gasoline retailers and ordered the case transferred to the State Court of Appeals. The State has refused to pay the refund, authorized by the 1947 Legislature, because no legislative appropriation was made for this purpose. Nelson Maynard, of Decatur, filed suit against State Auditor B. E. Thrasher, Jr., seeking to force the State to pay refund due Maynard Tire Company. Maynard lost in Fulton Superior Court and the case was appealed to the Supreme Court. This court transferred it on the grounds that no constitutional question is involved. . . . Former Congressman W. C. Lankford, of Douglas, lost the Supreme Court's most litigated case for the twenty-fifth time. The Court ruled against Lankford in six cases Tuesday, bringing the number of cases to the record-shattering mark. Lankford's case began in Coffee County in 1943 over the registration of land. He brought suit to levy a claim against this land for rents and profits alleged to be due Mrs. Mattie L. Lankford.

TO VISIT WASHINGTON — Miss Annette McLean, Curator of the State Museum, will leave tonight for Washington where she and Mrs. J. E. Hays, Director of the Georgia Department of Archives, will attend Friday's opening of the Georgia exhibit in the Library of Congress.

DOME OPENED — The Capitol dome is open to the public for the first time since before the war. A little-known entrance to the steps winding around the inside of the dome can be found inside the storage room of the Entomology Department.

GABFEST ENDS — The State Agricultural and Industrial Development Board ended a two-day session in which various State Department heads explained the functions of their agencies.

GASOLINE BURNS—A truck loaded with 4,000 gallons of gasoline went up in smoke early Tuesday on Bankhead Highway at Mildred Place after running into a stone wall. James O'Neal, of 840 Pulliam St., S. Nearby houses were scorched by the heat.

Parham appeared in Judge Virlyn Moore's Court in behalf of Roy Fordham, indicted for burglary, and won his case.

Theaters Get Instructions On Safety

The City Building Code Advisory Board Tuesday cut the compliance pattern for theaters in meeting minimum fire safety standards.

Large theaters with stages which fail to meet requirements in area and height must sprinkle the stages, and all passageways must be separated from foyers, auditoriums and other rooms by fire-resistant doors.

Smaller theaters of ordinary non-fire resistant construction must sprinkle the whole structure except the auditorium, and must provide adequate exits.

Meeting at the City Hall, the Board voted not to force the small theaters to separate foyers and passage as City Building Inspector Marvin Harper had proposed.

The Board told Harper, however, that theater owners must satisfy him that their establishments are safe. Harper said various types of construction and orchitecture would require different treatment and that no definite rules could be established.

their cattle and hogs on the farm. However, despite sharply reduced farm-to-market shipments Tuesday, prices dropped lower.

In general, livestock prices declined at most leading markets. Hog prices were steady to 50 cents per hundred pounds lower in active trading. At South St. Paul, Minn., and other markets, hogs sold as much as $1 lower.

The cattle market was weak, with many animals remaining unsold. Prices ranged from steady to 50 cents lower.

Only 5,500 salable hogs were shipped into the Chicago market, compared to 14,000 Monday when the market took the biggest drop in 16 months. Cattle receipts totaled 5,000 head in Chicago, compared to 18,000 Monday.

Richard F. Uhlmann, President of the Chicago Board of Trade, said Tuesday's grain price break largely was caused by the prospect of renewed curbs on the use of grain by distillers, and by Government plans to ship less food to Europe.

He said Sec. of Agriculture Anderson had been quoted as saying that the Government's Food Committee had decided to reduce food shipments abroad. He said Wednesday's prices would depend largely on whether the Government buys more grain for export, changes in crop prospects and the stock market trends.

Return of Sea Island Cotton

Down in Berrien County farmers have organized a co-op to keep control of a new, long-staple Sealand cotton described as "the greatest opportunity to increase farm income in years."

Berrien's experiments with this new cotton were described last Summer in a series of Constitution articles, "Report From the Country." The cotton was then in the field and ginning reports were needed to determine its real value. Those reports now are in and they are good.

"Sealand Cotton" is a story of man's stubborn unwillingness to meet defeat. Over in South Carolina at the Pee Dee Experiment station, Plant Breeder Bill Jenkins spent 12 years producing this new cotton.

Time was when Berrien was one of the several inland Coastal counties rich with Sea Island cotton. Valdosta, for example, was the largest inland cotton market in the world. The boll weevil ruined it, finding Sea Island even more to its liking than upland cotton.

After 12 years the cross between upland cotton and Sea Island has been worked out. It is easier to pick than Sea Island and it has a staple of from 1 3-8 inches to 1 6-7 inches. Soon they expect to have a two-inch staple.

Berrien was the first Georgia county to try the new seed and the results are good. We congratulate the new co-op and urge it to move and expand slowly, but to take in all farmers who are willing to follow the rules. This is a good thing for Georgia and will mean a better Georgia.

Republicans on Civil Rights

A dear lady wrote in to say that we were deliberately maligning the Republican Party by saying that it, too, had advanced a program of so-called civil rights like that of Mr. Truman's. This, she said, was not true. Only Mr. Truman was stabbing a defenseless South in the back.

There are many activities we could name, but the planks from the 1944 Republican platform will do for a starter. They are:

"Racial and religious intolerance: We unreservedly condemn the injection into American life appeals to racial and religious prejudice.

"FEPC: We pledge the establishment by Federal legislation of a permanent Fair Employment Practices Commission.

"Antipoll tax: The payment of any poll tax should not be a condition of voting in Federal elections, and we favor immediate submission of a constitutional amendment for its abolition.

"Antilynching: We favor legislation against lynching and pledge our sincere efforts in behalf of its early enactment."

We in the South have got to remember that to the other sections of the country these proposals are not very important. We can justify our system only if we accept the responsibilities of it and cease making the policy of segregation a fiction and an exploitation.

Our Man of the Year

We are glad the Georgia Power Company honored Trackless Trolley Operator Clark B. Bishop with a dinner so that Atlantans could honor him for risking his own life to rescue a young man from an onrushing train. It really was onrushing, too, the rescue being one of those hairbreadth things.

The more we think about it, we believe this dinner was probably the most unusual in our time. So often in these civic dinners honoring some citizen, there is a very great aroma of expediency about it that at least some of the guests sit there with figurative clothes pins on their noses and wish they were somewhere else.

But there was nothing phony about the Bishop dinner or about Bishop himself. He had, all on his own, acted like a man and in the best tradition of manhood. No committee had done the work for him and what he did was concrete and not theoretical. We nominate him for Atlanta's Man of the Year and suggest that we wait until some other such deed comes along before we have any more nominations.

We liked what he said, too. He said, "If I have done anything worthy I owe it to the clean, Christian home in which I was raised."

Check Again, Mr. Marlow

Mr. James Marlow, an able writer who turns out a daily editorial column for the Associated Press, has fallen into the usual error of those who write about the South without intimate knowledge thereof, and we trust Mr. Kent Cooper will inform him about primaries under the one-party system, which we don't like, either.

In his editorial for yesterday Mr. Marlow attempts to prove that very few persons vote in the States where the poll tax and the one-party system is in vogue, so to speak.

He selects as proof the 1944 Presidential election returns and demonstrates from the figures that in Mississippi and South Carolina only about five percent of the people voted.

What Mr. Marlow failed to say in his editorial was that very few persons vote in any of the elections because there are no opposition candidates. Therefore, his figures are meaningless. The election, as the Federal courts have been pointing out to South Carolina, is in the primary. If Mr. Marlow will look up the primary figures he will find that a great many persons vote, much more than five percent. He also will find that last year, in both Mississippi and South Carolina, a great many Negroes voted. But, he is quite right when he says that this was not too popular.

But, not enough people do vote—even in primaries, and so we trust that Mr. Marlow will continue to agitate us.

THE PULSE OF THE PUBLIC

The Constitution welcomes letters on either side of any subject. They should not exceed 200 words and must be signed, although names will be withheld on request. We regret none can be returned.

Scarlett Would Differ?

Editor Constitution: Your column recently voiced competently one of many viewpoints upon the American dilemma as reflected through the preferences of America's reading public. To liken this public to Scarlett O'Hara seems aptly descriptive; so much so that, as Scarlett probably would if she were here to answer, I beg strenuously to differ.

Even Scarlett might have been pensive enough in 1947 to find psychology interesting, if her prowess in adaptation is any index to human nature. Those who regard the "bomb" and its "perils" today as the "reality" of human responsibility may find it helpful to recall that in 1944, the University of Chicago's Dr. Maude Sly, then regarded by many of her colleagues as one of the world's foremost figures in cancer research, was upon retirement from the University, faced by the prospect of having to close her laboratory and discontinue experiments because of a shortage of funds. If the fact that at Oak Ridge money was scarcely a problem seems to some observers irrelevant, allow me to pose the following question: What variety of mentality is it that subjects its productivity to the glory and honor of Nagasaki and Hiroshima, and keeps a straight face even as it snubs carcinoma like a poor relative? Of course, as soon as the God of War returned home the "poor relation" was nice company to dispel loneliness, but like any snubbed kinsfolk, he acted up rather shamefully over the whole affair and chalked up a nice death toll in his own right. Yes, Scarlet and her psychology could very well echo, "I'll think of that tomorrow," as they grope hand in hand for the answer to the $64 question, namely: What phantom in the dark dictates that discrimination, lynching, restricted covenants, and partisan concepts of the importance of human suffering must be abetted by the polite snub of contingency, spurred on by the ingenuity of cartoonists, politics, columnists, and the like, while Tara, standing in ruins, weeps bitterly? Pay at Battey

Editor Constitution: Your paper published an article Feb. 1 appealing for nurses for Battey State Hospital. I don't believe your paper wishes to lead the public to think the nurses here at Battey are drawing any such salaries as mentioned in your article, when in reality they draw about the same salary as a floor sweeper here at Battey. This amounts to $50 to $95 per month after maintenance is deducted. My wife has nursed here 14 months and has been a night Ward Supervisor the past six months. Her salary is $105—$31 is deducted for maintenance which leaves $74. What I'd like to know is—if they can pay incoming nurses the high salaries mentioned in your article, why can't they pay the nurses that have worked here and stuck by them during the help shortage, draw the same salaries?

Defender of Linder

Editor Constitution: Those schoolteachers who want to gag Mr. Linder are typical of those Americans who worship the almighty dollar and would bow down and kiss the feet of anyone who promised them a little money! American farmers swallowed Wallace's bait, yes! So did every other group lay their birthright on the altar of foreign-inspired isms, in spite of warning from a few like Mr. Linder and of their own conscience. Even the war was not enough, with its murder and sorrow, to hurt most Americans where they can feel the most pain, in the pocketbook. But when shortages made them realize that control and dictation had left them with some almighty dollars, but nothing to buy with them, then they began to see the light—thanks in a great measure to our Mr. Tom Linder.

Evolution Is A Part of Life

I see where an effort is being made to revive the evolution controversy in connection with a teacher. One can but recall, "Forgive them, Father, for they know not what they do."

It is needless and not very sensational any more. I trust that the school boards involved will act with common sense.

The theory of evolution is so well documented there isn't any argument about it. It is no longer a battleground, and hasn't been for years. It wasn't even a battleground long ago when Tennessee provided the Scopes, or "monkey trial," at Dayton, Tenn. I suppose that trial confuses a lot of people who don't know what they are talking about, but who feel they must talk. Evolution nowhere says, or suggests, that man is ascended from monkeys or apes, however much man's actions may at times indicate it.

The theory of evolution doesn't at all interfere with the teachings of the Bible. I did not know anyone any longer thought so. I am sure that no one insists on saying that the seven days in which the earth and all the celestial system were created, and man was created to inhabit the earth, were our ordinary garden variety of days. They may have been a thousand years, as we understand years. No one knows and the Book doesn't reveal the length of the days. But, even if they were, it is not important.

Creation Man was created out of the earth, and evolution doesn't argue about it. Life was created. Maybe it took a long time to create man. Maybe they threw away the first four or five tries and started over again. Maybe the final one came along slowly.

I will match my own faith and my own belief in the Book with that of any of the fundamentalists who wish to divide hairs, and I would be very distressed if I could not believe in the theory of evolution. One is quite lost without it.

To say that evolution isn't a part of man's life is to argue that when the Lord put him down on earth he was what he is now—that his mind was ready made and that he knew all about radio and steamships and television and the movies. The contrary is true. Man was a long time evolving up to the status of savage tribes. Man not only is a product of evolution, he still is going along on the production belt of evolution. He is changing and learning and growing. He is building more churches and schools and filling them up, and he is learning that he had best send his preachers off to school and let them learn about science and the great discoveries in the scientific world. It will help man to be a better Christian to be an informed man. He will better understand the world about him and his place in it. It will not destroy his faith. It will strengthen his faith and make him strong. There is no quarrel between science and faith unless some thoughtless or deliberate person creates it. Both are of God.

Gift If God can give one gift He can give another. He can reveal the beauty of nature with as much ease as He can a formula for jet propulsion. As a matter of fact, the Creator gave the world some chemical formulae it never has figured out—the chlorophyl which makes leaves green, for example. If we could get the formula for that we'd have something as important as atomic energy.

If man isn't a part of evolution then he would have stopped right where he was when the Lord put him down, hot from the mould. He would have stayed more or less a clod, and we would have brute races wandering about the earth in skins, living in caves and killing one another with arrows and spears.

I do not see how a man can study the teachings of Christ and not realize that they urge man to grow and improve—to evolve from out of his past and to improve upon it.

Life All of life that means anything is evolution—growing from a less useful life to a more useful life . . . from a clod to intelligence. Evolution is growth and change. There is no conflict with religion.

I distrust all persons who would seek to separate science from God; religion from life.

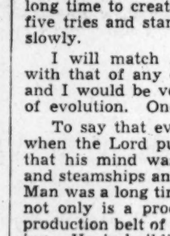

Christ was a teacher who walked on earth. He was not a mystic or just a colored drawing on a Sunday school picture card. And the greatest acceleration in the evolution of man has been the teachings of Christ. And we may hope it always will be. We send missionaries with the Word in the hope it may make men change their lives; that they may evolve from barbarity to sensitive, intelligent life.

I read where a teacher of English who was asked why the English we talk today is so much different from what it was in the time of Beowulf or the later Chaucer, replied that the language had evolved and developed as had man.

For that there seemingly are those who would remove him, or lynch him as a teacher.

These things always happen and they are not important. To me, only a groping man thinks of the theory of evolution as something ugly or meaning monkeys as forebears. It is a logical theory, which supports the best of Christianity.

If Christ had approved of ignorance and mental chains He would not have been a teacher.

Misery, Ah, Misery! The Rain Continues

A fellow has a good, warm and comfortable home. His home folks compare well with the average as to congeniality, kindliness and patience.

It rains two, three and four days. Rains hard and steadily, at least enough to prohibit—if said fellow has good sense—any leaving of the house.

Lucky guy. His work is of a nature he can, if necessary, do it at home.

(Get out the old portable typewriter—it was a good machine 30 years ago and it still is in working order.)

But the daily stint doesn't take up all the time. What to do? What to do on a rainy day?

Read a book? Maybe, but a fellow gets tired of reading after so long and, anyway, there isn't much available in the way of escape literature. Or litter, if you prefer. Have read all the new whodunits and the more entertaining romantic novels.

And the mood doesn't indicate any rereading of standard classics or study of the heavier textbooks.

Solitaire? Get out the card table and try some solitaire. That palls after an hour, though.

What to do? What to do?

Maybe a snooze on the bed, for a while, would be a good idea. Try it.

Another hour killed, when you wake up.

(Tragedy, isn't it? Here we are counting our life the most precious of all possessions. And life, after all, is but time, a succession of conscious hours. Here we are, desperately seeking means of killing those hours, one by one. I said it was tragic.)

Stare out the window for awhile, watching the heavy drops splash against the mesh of the window screen. See the soaking, bare branches of the winter-stripped trees. See that car slowly splashing along the street. And a disconsolate cat sitting in the shelter of a porch, meowing plaintively for admittance to the house he calls home. (Why don't those pesky humans open the door and let a bedraggled Tom inside to warmth?)

Three members of the family. No fourth available for bridge.

Let's play some three-handed rummy. Good for a little while. How about poker? No chips. Well, we could use toothpicks. Get out that box.

Here's a new game. Combination of poker, bingo, put and take. Try that for awhile.

Desperation. Let's play some three-handed bridge. The three of us play one rubber. Not much good. Ruins your bidding, anyway. Mister Goren would be horrified.

The Radio Listen to a few radio programs. That's better. At least, something to do. But you're apt to smoke too much as you sprawl, in a big chair, smiling now and then at a radio comedian's idea of a gag.

That orchestra is a good one. And that singer does put it over, smartly.

Radio is, after all, a modern blessing, some of the time. If you dodge the more painful programs.

So, we harken to the voices on the air waves, keep up with the news via WCON, and thus tempt bedtime to come around.

Next Morning? Next morning it is still raining. But despite sinus, despite all aches and pains present or to come, another day of inactivity in the most pleasant of homes horrifies. Get in the car and drive to town, defying the penalties to come.

I wonder what that strange tag on the rear of that car ahead signifies?

W4HAH. Something to do with a 4-H Club, I wonder? A new mystery.

Now something to ponder over. What is the meaning of W4HAH on the back of a car?

NOW It's in Tune, Mr. President'

Prints And Paintings

I've been collecting pictures all my life.

My final phase as a picture collector led to an embarrassing incident. In 1940 I got a yen for a little fresh air—the kind that doesn't come out of a night-club vent. Eleanor got stuck on a big house and some acres in Westchester, and I picked it up for what today would be garage money. I knew I'd never have enough dough to gay up this glorified barn with fine paintings. Eleanor again came riding to the rescue. One evening she showed me a charming Picasso clown. "Where did you steal it?" I asked her.

"The drug store," smiled my frau. "Four ninety-eight. Let's do the whole house in reproductions. For 98 cents up to 20 bucks, we can have our pick of cardboard masterpieces from Giorgione to Grant Wood."

"At least the price is right," I said.

WELL, by the end of the Summer, my floppy joint in Westchester looked like a wing in the National Gallery. Baby and I were breakfasting with Breughel and dining with Degas. And the total bill came to less than the cost of one original of a three-headed tootsie with an alarm clock in her tummy.

One afternoon, a Broadway producer dropped in on us unexpectedly. This gent doesn't especially like me. He has me tabbed as one of those corny individuals who think this country is a pretty good place. I wouldn't call this producer a Commie, but if he doesn't get a check from Moscow every week, he's being robbed. You know the type. He signals a waiter and says, "Comrade, take back this lousy guinea hen under glass, and tell our comrade, the chef, what he can do with it."

When the producer got out of his car, I got the impression he was casing our house as a possible rest home for overworked commissars. I knew he was prepared to hate every tree and bush, but I played country squire and invited him in for a drink. When he walked into the hall, he did a double as he saw the Van Gogh reproductions. I got it. Having read that I owned a few good pictures in town, he assumed the stuff on my walls in the country was the McCoy. As he looked around my living room, I could read the first three paragraphs of the Communist Manifesto in his eyes.

"Only you," he exploded, "would have eight Renoirs hanging in one room."

I DIDN'T KNOW what to do. For years, Eleanor had been lecturing me about not insulting guests. I knew this gent fancied himself as big stuff in the culture department. Should I kid him about not knowing the difference between printing and painting? Should I tell him the eight hunks of colored cardboard weren't worth 50 bucks in a rising market? Or should I keep mum and let him think I was a dirty capitalist?

"Wait," I said, "and I'll get you a drink."

I found Eleanor and told her my problem. My mermaid listened like a Supreme Court judge. "Be a little gentleman," she said. "Say nothing until the bum starts tripping over our furniture. Then throw him out."

Well, unfortunately the pinko didn't drinko. When he left an hour later, he hadn't tripped once. And to this day I'm sure he thinks the makeshift masterpieces on my walls are worth $5,000,000.

It's a good thing for the gentleman's blood pressure that he didn't get to see the maid's room where I keep my Rembrandts.

Literally, The Femme Fatale

The American Automobile Association warns women that the "new look" may result in a great many more accidents.

And not necessarily to men.

It seems that injuries to pedestrians are currently divided, 22 percent involving women and 78 percent involving men. But the odds are due to get shorter as skirts get longer.

The uncovered leg, explains the AAA, is more apt to be seen . . . especially by masculine drivers.

The result is that a great many women will be what others are saying they wouldn't be, buried in the new look.

Of course, the AAA is merely affirming what feminine hitchhikers have known all along: With short skirts, the danger lies not so much in being run down . . . as picked up.

25-Cent Feud Finds No Horns on Allen

Recognizing the "seriousness but, at the same time, the facetious vein" in which my letter was written, Internal Revenue Commission Marion Allen replies to my open letter of last week. He says:

"It would please me no little if you would convey to your son, Jimmy, my genuine and heartfelt sympathy that, at the tender age of 10, he has been initiated into the mysterious and painful fraternal order of Georgia Income Taxpayers. Please inform him that it is indeed unfortunate that his carefree days are now clouded with the harassing problems that confront a 'man of income,' if he desires to obtain a refund of the amount of 25 cents withheld by the State Treasurer from his $3 salary for his services as page-for-a-day in the 1947 session of the Georgia Legislature. Since your letter propounds questions that perplex many adult taxpayers, I feel that it would not be amiss for me to submit herewith a serious answer to the questions presented to you by Jimmy.

"Question: Was it proper for the State Treasurer to withhold 25c as withholding salary of $3 earned by your son as page-for-a-day?

"Answer: Under existing laws, an employer is required to deduct withholding tax from the salary of an employee who claims himself as an exemption when the income is paid on a daily basis, provided such income is as much as $1.75 per day or more. The Relationship "Question: Should you, as the father, have withheld a nickel from each of the few quarters paid Jimmy during the past year for earning 'A' on his report card, raking leaves, etc.?

"Answer: It is my opinion, based upon an interpretation of the Federal income tax laws, that the relationship of employer and employee did not exist between you and your son, and any contributions made for the 'A' report card or for such duties as raking leaves would constitute a gift that would not be an allowable deduction by you or taxable income to your son.

No Long Form "Question: Should your son file a Federal income tax on the long form (1040), required of men operating their own business, in view of the fact that he went into business for himself shortly before the close of the year by publishing a miniature tabloid newspaper of children's news, for which he received approximately one penny a copy?

"Answer: A person who is a citizen of the United States, having a gross income of $500 or more for the year, is required to file a Federal income tax return, irrespective of whether he is a minor or an adult, and irrespective as to whether he has embarked upon the many times uncertain, the sometimes troublesome and the always expensive sea of matrimony. Aliter, if the gross income is less than the $500 per annum. If, therefore, the small newspaper enterprise or business entered into by your son can be classified as a business or enterprise within the accepted sense of the law, it would be necessary that the long form (1040) be filed if the gross income from the business was less than $500 except and only in the event that Jimmy desires to file a return in order to obtain a refund of the 25 cents withheld from the $3 salary received by him.

Allen's Offer "In conclusion, may I suggest and, at the same time, devoutly trust that your worthy young son file with this office a Federal income tax return on or before March 15, next, which, if he so desires, I will gladly prepare for him, thereby affording me the pleasure, personally and officially, of refunding to him the 25 cents withheld by the State Treasurer. Won't you please also try to impress upon Jimmy the fact that, after all, the United States Collector of Internal Revenue for the State of Georgia does not have a set of satanic horns or a demonic forked tail? Being so interested, it might not be amiss for you to convey to your son for me that if he files a Federal income tax return for the calendar year 1947 (in order to obtain the refund in question) he will thereby place himself on our mailing list for 1948 and will receive from this office necessary income tax forms for filing a 1948 Federal income tax return. However, if his gross income tax is less than $500 per annum for the year 1948 and no tax has been withheld, then and in that event he would, of course, ignore said forms and still be within the law."

More Talk About the Oil Shortage

In our concern about the shortage of fuel oil and gasoline, we must not be content merely to do what we can to take care of the present emergency. We should look ahead. Usually we can cope with a crisis, even though we are unprepared when we should not have been. But recurring emergencies may constitute, in effect, a continuing emergency. Now is the time to plan for the future. The people are entitled to know whether gasoline and heating oil will both be in reasonable supply next year and the year after that.

In an article in the American magazine in January, 1944, I sounded the warning that, despite the unjustified optimism of the oil industry, we were approaching the time when, on the basis of known oil reserves, we would have an insufficiency of domestic crude oil. And under date of May 30, 1947, I mailed to every member of Congress an open letter on the question of oil, deploring our lack of either a national or an international policy, and urging that something be done about it.

In the meantime, the demand for gasoline exceeded all anticipations. Also irresponsible manufacturers and distributors of oil burners continued to sell and install their equipment without warning the householders who put in an oil burner in place of a reliable coal furnace, that he might run into fuel difficulties. This is still going on. Oil burning equipment is being widely advertised at the very time that public officials are stumbling over each other vainly trying to find oil for heatless homes. Even some of the incorrigible optimists of the oil industry now admit that they do not know where sufficient supplies of petroleum products are to come from during the next few years.

But still we have no national leadership on oil, although the situation requires such leadership. The Army and the Navy know that, in the event of another war, they will need at least two and a half million barrels of oil a day more than the present maximum productive capacity of our oil wells. They know that, without oil, we could not hope to win another war. The last one proved that conclusively. But they do not seem to know how or where they could get oil if there should be another war.

The Supreme Court has held that the United States has title to the rich oil-bearing tidelands off the coast of California. But what good is a paper title, if government officials occupy their time trying to devise a plan by which they can divest the country of this title, without the people knowing what is happening? If the Attorney General of the United States and the Secretary of the Interior, who are principally responsible in this matter, had spent half of the time and energy in planning for the development and use of this oil in the public interest, as they have in playing politics with it, the country would be better off today.

Then there is the continental shelf, particularly the one lying west of California. A high oil executive once told me that, in his opinion, more oil would be found on that continental shelf than has been discovered to date on the Continent itself. This continental shelf, at the instance of the then Secretary of the Interior, was formally declared by President Roosevelt during his lifetime, to be a part of the Continental United States. And what have we done about this? Nothing. Perhaps when another war comes we can send divers down with tin buckets in which to bring up oil to save our land from invasion.

During the war, when I discovered that government engineers were not up to date in making synthetic oil out of shale and coal, I asked the Congress for a special appropriation. I caused engineers to be sent anywhere in the world where expert knowledge on this subject could be acquired. The Bureau of Mines went to work in its laboratories. It learned how to make synthetic oil out of coal and shale. Then I asked Congress for 30 million dollars with which to build small commercial plants. I got it. We wanted to know what we could do with this raw material for oil on a commercial basis and we are finding out.

A plant to extract oil from shale is in operation at Rifle, Col. At Louisiana, Missouri, the Bureau of Mines took over from the Army a chemical plant which has been converted and is extracting synthetic gasoline from coal of various qualities. So this synthetic program has had an auspicious start. But for this, all of the credit goes to the foresight and the achievement of the Roosevelt Administration.

Now Secretary Krug has asked for nine billion dollars over a period of years, with which to build plants for the extraction of oil from shale and coal. Of course, such a program should be seriously considered. But just what is Secretary Krug's plan? Are these plants to be owned and operated by the Government? If not, how are they to be owned and operated? The times call for carefully worked-out specifications. Does this Administration have the imagination and the courage to lay such a blueprint before the Congress and press for quick action? More than talk is needed.

WILLIAM H. FIELDS

What If We Had OPA Now?

Editor's Note: Westbrook Pegler's column for today failed to arrive.

What if Congress had accepted President Truman's repeated demands and passed price control legislation?

Very likely the price of wheat would have been pegged at or near $3 a bushel. Meat prices would be fixed pretty close to the record-breaking high. The cost of living generally might have leveled, but it would have been on a high plateau with no valley in sight.

Instead, the grain market began a nosedive last Wednesday that sent wheat down as much as 60 cents a bushel from the January high. Other grains and commodities have followed. Monday of this week the hog and cattle markets plunged and prices yesterday were at the new low established then. The market break already has begun to be reflected in the cost of living.

Mr. Truman's grave pronouncements on the economic crisis, which he has repeated at every opportunity, have given the Republicans more political ammunition than any other single series of Presidential acts, unless it be his civil rights stand.

The swift fall of meat prices apparently is the last straw to presage a decline which promises to wind up in a reduced cost-of-living index, taking with it much of the wind Mr. Truman has been using to fill the sails of his bid for re-election. Republicans already are beginning to capitalize on the President's ill-advised, or unadvised, statement last Thursday, the second day of the grain market break, reiterating his demand for rationing and price controls and predicting an economic collapse unless prices were regulated. The market was falling all about his head but Mr. Truman couldn't, or wouldn't see it.

AND COULD it have been pure coincidence that Sec. of Agriculture Anderson chose that same day to announce the Government soon would buy 40,000,000 more bushels of wheat for Europe and that 77,000,000 more bushels were yet to be purchased under the relief program? Republicans took the statement to mean the Administration was attempting to bolster a falling market. They claimed, in effect, that the Government really does not want lower prices now. What the Administration would like, they said, is for election time to roll around under present conditions of high prices and false prosperity, crying meanwhile that the Republicans defeated efforts to curb inflation by refusing to accept Mr. Truman's demands for rationing and price controls.

The Democrats, naturally, contend such a policy unthinkable. Sec. Anderson has gone to considerable lengths to explain his announcement of more Government purchases on a day when grain prices were in wild retreat. His best rebuttal was that the market continued going down despite the announcement. What he didn't say was that the crop news from world wheat belts was so encouraging as to override the effect of a comparatively small Government purchase.

It has been obvious since last Fall that the President was using inflation as a political rallying cry. He succeeded well for several months. The Republicans, in fact, were in a very embarrassing spot. That is, they were until last Thursday. Whether they get completely off that spot and place Mr. Truman there in turn will depend upon the trend of commodity prices for the next few weeks.

BUT IF the President had had his way last Fall, and rationing and price controls had been reimposed, there is little possibility consumers now would be benefiting from slightly lower prices, with greater cuts expected to come. For price controls, in addition to setting maximum prices, also tend to set artificial minimum prices. We saw that under OPA. Government controls as often as not give prices a ceiling on which to lean.

It is true that Mr. Truman said he did not intend to reimpose controls at any given moment. He merely asked the authority for controls. But if Congress had granted his request he could not possibly have escaped imposing controls. The political pressure of labor unions and other groups that carry great weight with the administration would have been too great, regardless of how level-headed might have been his intentions.

Instead of prices propped up at abnormally high levels by a peacetime OPA, the consuming public now looks with hope toward declining prices based soundly on unchanging economic laws.

Soviet Word War a Boomerang

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—Russian accusations of "imperialistic warmongering" against the United States do not seem to be making much impression on the minds of other countries.

In fact, a survey of public opinion in seven foreign nations, five of them in Europe, shows that the majority of the people think that it is Russia, not the United States, which would likely start a war of aggression.

This survey, one of a series of international polls conducted by affiliates of the American Institute, indicates that in the struggle going on between Washington and Moscow to influence men's minds throughout the world, the United States is not doing too badly.

In seven nations—France, Holland, Italy, Sweden, Norway, Canada and Brazil—voters were asked two questions concerning the motives of Russia and the motives of the United States. The surveys in each nation were conducted at approximately the same time during the month of January.

The first question was:

"Do you think Russia would start a war to get something she wanted (such as more territory or more resources)—or would she fight only if attacked?"

Here is the vote in the seven foreign nations, and also in the United States,

Brazil	43	16	41

IN SHARP contrast to the above are the opinions of the same countries on the question whether the United States would start a war to get something she wanted.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

So If You're on a Party Line ...

Seemed to Homer Bentley (whose phone is on a party line) that every time he picked up the receiver there was a different "party" talking ... tying up the line.

Instead of complaining to the phone company, he got the names of all subscribers on his line, and invited them over for a friendly glass of beer. Found all of them had had the same experience.

So they adopted a program of "Self Regulation"—to keep calls brief, assign certain hours of the day to certain users, and so forth.

Worked, too—like the brewers' program of "Self Regulation" by which taverns selling beer are checked on and warned if their standards aren't up to scratch. If the warning isn't heeded, the proper authorities are notified.

From where I sit, "Self Regulation" is the democratic way of regulating many services to the public ... whether they apply to party lines, or the enjoyment of a moderate, pleasant beverage like beer.

Taxpayers Were Angels to a Steel Mill

WASHINGTON—All right, fellow angels, look what we did for the mysterious proprietors of the broken-down and beaten-up Andrews Steel Company, of Newport, Ky. Turned 'em into millionaires in spite of ourselves.

"Do you spell that 'steel'," demanded Rep. George H. Bender, of Ohio, "or do you spell it 'steal'?" The Federal hot-shots, who spent the taxpayers' cash, laughed, but they weren't amused.

Rep. Bender and his fellow Congressmen were trying to find out what the Government wanted with a steel company whose President, Paul Angell, thought so little of it he threatened to sell the whole works for junk.

The Army thought it needed the ancient steel works to make shells, but it changed its mind. The War Production Board continued to insist on leasing the plant, which everybody agreed was out of date. So the good old Defense Plant Corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, put up the cash.

"Our objections were very strenuous," testified James L. Kelehan of the RFC, "but the WPB insisted."

So the Government leased the works for $75,000 a year. It paid Angell and Company $400,000 as a managament fee for producing 400,000 tons of steel, spent $310,000 remodeling the works, paid $800,000 for the steel on hand when the lease was signed and sold it back later at a 60 percent discount.

"Is that all?" demanded Rep. Bender.

It wasn't. The Government paid $12 more per ton for the steel than the going OPA price.

"You mean the Government itself violated its own price ceilings?" Rep. Bender cried.

"Oh no, sir," replied Kelehan. "The OPA set a special ceiling price for this steel."

Rep. Bender said he supposed Angell pronounced his name "Angel."

"But the Government, the taxpayers, were the angels in this case," he added.

It turned out that we angels put up better than $13,000,000 for the steel plant that nobody wanted, bought the steel it produced for a price higher than any large steel mill charged, and still managed to lose nearly $3,000,000.

"Angels," moaned Rep. Bender, "And where is Mr. Angell?"

The Committee attorney, Henry Glassie, didn't know. He'd tried to serve a subpoena on Angell in his Chicago real estate office, but was informed that he was traveling in Mexico.

"The Angell has flown to paris unknown," Rep. Bender observed. He wondered who actually owned the Andrews Steel Corporation. Galssie said the Lehman Bros., banking house of New York, bought most of the stock in it from the Andrews family before the war and later sold it to a Mr. Charles Stamm, who in turn seemed to have turned it over to Angell.

Strenuous efforts to discover who actually owned the corporation added up to no information whatever, Glassie said. For that matter, the corporation doesn't even own the steel mill any longer.

When the Government got through with the plant it was such a slick, shiny and modern mill that Angell sold it to the Detrola Corporation, after the war, for better than $3,000,000.

Fellow angels, I don't know about you, but I don't feel so good.

Sen. Taft Takes to the Road Again

ON TOUR WITH SEN. TAFT—Sen. Taft, of Ohio, is out on the road again in earnest quest of the Republican Presidential nomination. His trip will include Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska and Colorado.

It is just another bit of evidence of what has become almost a phenomenon. This is how early the Presidential campaigns started for this most important political year of 1948, how much interest they attract as manifest by the number of newspapermen who go along, and how far advanced this business is already. It is perhaps a bit late, even amid the snow and ice of February, to observe how it all began.

For it started in the heat of last Summer, nearly a year before the conventions of both major political parties, when Sen. Taft and Gov. Dewey, of New York, took to the road. Each was trailed through the West by groups of newspaper correspondents.

Long before that, as a matter of fact, another contender for the Republican Presidential nomination, Harold Stassen, was beating about the country on his own, making speeches. When the Taft and Dewey processionals made it evident that the campaigns really were on, then Mr. Stassen also attracted an escort of newspaper chroniclers on an extensive airplane jaunt to the West and South last Fall.

Mr. Stassen was first out in the new year, with an airplane trip that took him again to the West, Southwest and South, followed up quickly by a foray into New England—all to excite wonder about what a man will endure to try for a four-year lease on that big, draughty house at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. in Washington.

The "strenuous life" once advocated by Teddy Roosevelt is the fashion this year for men who want to be President.

And now Sen. Taft is back on the road to prove that, and to testify to the ambition that consumes some men. For the Ohio Senator works ordinarily like the legendary beaver, day in and day out, just as routine, directing policy for his party in the Senate. To make the current trip he took advantage of the customary lull in Congress at this time of year to permit Republican leaders to go hither and yon to make speeches in connection with the birthday of the party's founder, Abraham Lincoln. Twenty-seven newspapermen are accompanying the Senator on his trip, including two representing British newspapers and one a Swiss newspaper. This reflects European interest in his political fortunes.

Sen. Taft is on the move in what looks like a critical stage of his candidacy, judging from the polls that indicate that he, among leading Republican aspirants, would run least well against President Truman. He has, however, strong backing among organization leaders, which often translates more readily into convention votes than does popular favor.

All of the activity, and so far in advance, is a healthy sign for our democratic process. This is a year when our people are called on to make some of the most vital decisions of their history. This year, more than usual, people have been able to learn the views of the principal candidates ahead of the conventions. That should mean something. It should prevent a pig-in-a-poke selection.

Significant, too, has been the public interest aroused if one may judge, for instance, from the way people ventured out in zero and sub zero temperatures in New England to hear Harold Stassen on the most recent of these tours. Also, from the intelligent questions they asked about all the current issues.

Interest has been intensified, too, by two rather extraordinary political events of recent weeks. One was the announcement by Henry Wallace, just on the eve of the new year, of his third-party candidacy, and the other was the withdrawal of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower from the contest. Both caused complications, of which the result cannot yet be forecast.

Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days.—Ecclesiastes 11:1.

Norman Beasley tells of a young American who was studying music in Warsaw, Poland, and needed funds. Paderewski, hearing of his plight, sent for him and gave him money to continue his course. Forty years later when the noted pianist was in Boston, the American musician, then himself renowned, called upon Paderewski and gave him a check to cover all he owed him including interest. But Paderewski refused to take the check, suggesting that he hunt up some music student in the same straits that he was in in Warsaw and give it to him, adding, "That is what money is for; and that is all it is for."

WE SHOULD have known postwar Europe would be like this. Didn't the world fair site of New York's "world of tomorrow" revert to a dump?

THE THING that haunts the old GOP wheelhorse is that Ike went as far as he did on a mere unconfirmed suspicion that he is a Republican.

"THE UNITED STATES is trying to replace Italy's chestnut groves"—and if it means unloading the toupe joke and the one about California driving, let's everybody lend a hand.

DEAF TO cries that it can be disastrous, the big-hearted House Ways and Means Committee votes us a $6,300,000,000 tax slash. Thus a problem in conduct is posed: Should we take it like men?

JOHN BRADBERRY

2d-String Linemen Are Driving Limousines

A former star lineman at one of our Southeastern Conference colleges finished his first season as a professional and returned to school to get his degree.

He was advising his old teammates on how to negotiate a contract with the pros when they graduated.

"Be sure," he warned, "to have it stipulated in your contract whether you are to play defense or offense. Don't agree to play both. Heck, they'll pay you just as much for one."

All of which is a fair indication of the present inflation of football talent and, perhaps, a warning that the National and All-America Leagues had better hurry and get together if they figure on surviving the first little recession.

One only has to look at the prices being paid such fellows as Johnny Lujack, Harry Gilmer and Charley Conerly to ink contracts. Of course, these boys are the tops and their five and six-figure salaries are naturally above the average. But the trend has reached even the lowest substitute, a second-string end in the SEC recently getting $5,000 to sign.

When one considers that only two of the All-America clubs, Cleveland and New York, made money last season and that seven of the 10 National teams managed to break even or better, he realizes that even now the traffic won't stand the cost of such salaries and adjustments will be forthcoming.

Grid Inflation Charley Trippi was one of the first to grab off some really "big dough" for signing. His contract has been estimated at anywhere from $100,000 down to $70,000. Best guess is that the Cardinals are paying him about $18,000 a year.

But figures quoted on Lujack, Gilmer and Conerly have made Trippi's salary fade from the picture and no longer is he ranked at the top.

There was a time, and it wasn't many years ago, that boys played football for 50 bucks a game and it was necessary for them to find other employment during the off-seson.

But those days have vanished. Under the present salary scales, third-string linemen purchase shiny new autos and spend the Spring and Summer months joy-riding.

How long it will last is anybody's guess. But one thing is certain: It isn't a sound financial proposition and some adjustment will have to be made before long.

Baseball, Too The same trend is evident in professional baseball. The combined salaries of Feller, Williams and DiMaggio this season would be a substantial payment on the national debt. Each of these gentlemen is drawing in the neighborhood of $75,000 for one season's play, which differs from the football stars whose contracts run over a period of years.

Like football, the lesser baseball lights are also getting their pay upped and under a recent player-management agreement, the rankest rookie cannot be paid less than $5,000 for his season's work.

But there is one big difference. Practically all the baseball clubs are making money. They play 154-game schedules while the football clubs play one-tenth that many.

And baseball can make its adjustments after each season because most contracts are only for one year.

Athens TD Club Folks who run these touchdown and quarterback clubs could do a lot worse than follow the example set by Athens in staging a football party.

The gathering over at the Classic City Monday night was the best of its kind we have attended this season.

The program was streamlined. President Red Leathers took a couple of minutes to welcome everybody, and then turned it over to Abit Nix, the master of ceremonies who prohibited any speeches as he took five minutes to introduce guests.

Then Spec Towns told a story. Wally Butts talked about five minutes and Frank Leahy used only 20 in his main address.

A movie showing highlights of 1947 Notre Dame games concluded the program.

In addition, the food was like something out of a New Orleans restaurant, with a thick steak the main course.

All in all, it was a far cry from those three-hour programs and meals featuring cold turkey, dressing and peas.

Greenberg, Tribe Fail To Agree

CLEVELAND, Feb. 10—(AP)—Hank Greenberg, who had been reported in line to sign with the Cleveland Indians, left town Tuesday still a free agent, but Tribe officials said a contract would be discussed soon.

"We're farther ahead," said Indian President Bill Veeck. "At least closer to a decision. But it could go either way. I think Hank wants a couple of days to think it over."

The former American League home-run king indicated Monday night he probably would sign as a player-coach. He came here as Veeck's guest at a baseball dinner honoring Indian Manager Lou Boudreau.

"The trouble is, Hank doesn't exactly know what he wants, so it's difficult for me to know what he wants," Veeck said.

Greenberg had said that before he made a connection with the club he wanted to be sure it wasn't "just a one-year proposition as a player-coach.

"I'm looking for something more permanent," he added. "I'd like to be associated in the operation of a major league club."

'Bad Boy' Eddie Miller Is Acquired by Phils

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 10—(AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies Monday acquired baseball's current "bad boy"—Eddie Miller.

And Mgr. Ben Chapman quickly proclaimed:

"I don't care what he says. All he has to do is hit and field."

Owner Bob Carpenter swung the deal, the first since he took over front office detail upon death of Gen. Mgr. Herb Pennock.

The Cincinnati Reds relinquished Miller for Outfielder Johnny Wyrostek and a bundle of cash.

Carpenter said the deal followed a telephone conversation with Warren Giles, General Manager of the Reds. The Phil boss would not say how much money was involved, but stated it was "more than the $10,000 waiver price."

The 31-year-old Cincinnati shortstop jumped into print last month by publicly criticizing Mgr. Johnny Neun's field tactics and the playing value of some of his Cincinnati teammates.

Chapman, elated to have Miller on his club, declared:

"He is the best shortstop in the National League. And his home run punch will be a big thing in our attack.

"He can talk as much as he wants off the field. It's the results on the field that count."

Carpenter said he was reluctant to give up Wyrostek, whom he termed one of the best defensive outfielders in the business.

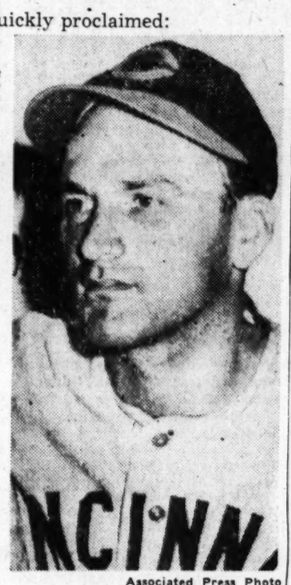

"But," he added, "we need infield punch. And Miller gives us that."

Miller batteed only .268 last year but hammered out 19 home runs and drove in 86 runs as the Reds finished in fifth place.

Wyrostek came to the Phillies in 1946 with Pitcher Al Jurisich in a cash deal with the St. Louis Cardinals. Johnny batted .273 last year, hit five home runs and drove in 51 runs.

The addition of Miller gives the Phils four shortstops. Jackie Albright and Ralph La Pointe, both of whom impressed as rookies last year, will go to Clearwater, Fla., for Spring training along with Gran Hamner, up from Utica of the Eastern League.

Miller broke into major league ball in 1936 with Cincinnati, went to Boston in 1939 and remained with the Braves until 1943 when he was shipped back to Cincinnati.

Hatchet Fails To Cut Phone Line, $100,000 Turf Swindle Blocked

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Feb. 10—(UP)—A $100,000 racehorse swindle was frustrated Friday when a dull hatchet failed to slash completely through this town's main telephone cable, police revealed Tuesday.

In custody of police were seven men and a woman implicated in a giant coup hinged on betting on a longshot winner after the race was run in New Orleans.

The dull hatchet cut only a few strands of the cable, including the one to the Las Vegas Club, which consequently was not flashed the results of the race and lost $12,100 in bets. Five other clubs received the results and refused late wagers.

The bets were to be placed on Atomic City, who won the seventh race at the Fair Grounds track and returned $91. Las Vegas casinos returned their limit of $42 to those betting on the horse.

As the plot was reconstructed by police, a woman participant held an open line to a gambling casino in Reno to obtain the results of a longshot victory. In four adjacent telephone booths men stood holding open lines to gambling joints here. The woman flashed the word to the four men that Atomic City had won. Each whispered the horse's name into his telephone to a confederate stationed at the gambling houses.

The woman then ran outside and signaled to a man on a telephone pole. It was his job to slash the cable and prevent the gambling places from receiving the results of the race.

As pre-arranged, the man hacked the cable, but his hatchet failed to cut all the lines.

Meanwhile others in on the plot sauntered over to betting windows and tried to lay large sums on the winner. Their bets were refused at five clubs which received the results over the wires the plotters thought cut.

But at the Las Vegas Club no such result came in, two bets were laid and a few minutes later, when that club got the results from another gambling house, the bettors were paid off $12,100.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

'Ol Diz' May Make Radio Tour

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 10—(AP)—Dizzy Dean may make a personal appearance tour instead of broadcasting baseball games next season.

The brewery that has the one-time St. Louis Cardinal pitching great under contract disclosed Tuesday it is not renewing its contract for broadcasting rights with the St. Louis Browns.

Dean and Johnny O'Hara broadcast all Browns games last season.

A spokesman for the brewery sponsoring Dean said its plans for Dean are uncertain at this time, but that the former pitcher's contract has "two or three years to run yet."

"There's a possibility that he might go around making public appearances for us," the spokesman said. "There has been no decision in the matter yet."

BOSTON, Feb. 10—(AP)—Mile Champion Gil Dodds, hospitalized with mumps, Tuesday night was reported running a high fever.

Visiting friends reported he was much more uncomfortable than when he entered the hospital Monday. Both sides of his face have swollen and he has been restricted to a liquid diet.

Meanwhile Jack Ryder, his veteran coach, has notified all of the major track meet promoters that the Flying Parson is out of competition for the remainder of the indoor season.

Ryder said Dodds would return to his Wheaton, Ill., home when he is released, probably late next week, and rest up before starting his outdoor training for an Olympic team berth.

BOSTON Feb. 10—(AP)—Off to a slow start and trailing for the first eight minutes, the Holy Cross Crusaders suddenly got hot Tuesday night and mystified the Temple Owls, 71-44, for their ninth consecutive basketball victory.

HARLINGEN, Texas, Feb. 10—(AP)—The big guns of golfdom began firing at Harlingen Municipal Course's par 35-36—71 Tuesday in the first tune-up for the lower Rio Grande Valley Open and as usual par came off second best. The $10,000 event starts Thursday.

Dale Anderson, of Glenview, Ill., turned in a 65 and Jim Ferrier, of San Francisco and Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, Va., posted 66's while Glenn Teal, of Jacksonville, Fla., went around the 6,045 yards in 67.

SHUQUALAK, Miss., Feb. 10 (AP)—Pandimonium, a pointer, was named winner of the National Field Trial Club's free-for-all championship here Tuesday.

BROOKLYN, Feb. 10—(AP)—Branch Rickey announced Tuesday that he had signed Carl Voyles to a three-year contract as director of football for the Brooklyn Dodgers and as coach of the football Dodgers of the All-America Conference.

Voyles' appointment as coach of the Dodgers had been announced previously. The added post of director of football for the Brooklyn organization considerably increases the scope of his duties, Rickey said. There was no indication of the salary the former Auburn mentor will receive. Steve Hokuf is being retained as an assistant coach.

Voyles said he was trying to get in touch with Hank Foldberg, the star end who resigned recently from West Point.

Roosevelt Raps Brown As Grady Tops O'Keefe

By JESSE OUTLAR

Roosevelt, the most improved quintet in the City League, erased Brown's chances of earning a berth in the GIAA Tournament by handing the Johnny Rebs a 36-34 setback Tuesday night in a hotly contested tilt which kept the packed house at the Henry Grady gym in an uproar. Grady sparred around with O'Keefe in the second game on the twin-bill before administering the knockout punch in the third quarter and then coasted to an easy 43-32 victory.

Guard Bill Scott, who has been the climax player for the Tide all season, and Johnny Carson, who hit for 17 points and turned in a smooth floor game, provided the spark in the waning moments of the final quarter that staved off a desperate Brown rally and provided the Roosevelt victory margin.

The Tide jumped into an early lead, but Brown, with Guard Bob Smith leading the way, took an 8-7 lead mid-way of the quarter. However, Roosevelt charged right back and was in command until the last six minutes, holding a 22-17 lead at the half.

Smith and Jimmy Moore then sparked a late spurt, which put Brown in the lead once more by a thin 31-30 count. But Scott and Carson quickly dropped in three lay-up goals, Scott finding the range for two of them.

Pepper Rogers and Moore retaliated with a foul toss and a two-pointer, respectively, but time ran out with the Tide freezing the ball.

Center Bobby Turk and Forward Saul Feldman, who collected 16 and 11 respectively, paced Grady to its third league victory in the second game.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 10—Middleweight Ed McGehee and Light-Heavyweight Oscar Cox carried Atlanta's colors into the finals of the district Golden Gloves boxing tournament here Tuesday night with smashing victories.

McGehee scored a TKO over Robert Acosta, Pascagoula, Miss., in 1:50 of the second round and Cox whipped the 1947 champion, Robert Murdock, Nashville, decisively in three rounds.

Jack Dillard, Atlanta featherweight, bowed out in a close battle with Defending Champion Earl "Red" Russell, Nashville.

McGehee suffered a cut over the eye which will handicap him against Defending Champion Jim Page, Nashville, Wednesday night. Cox will face John Dukich, Pascagoula, in the title round.

North Fulton Five Beats Fulton, 52-38

North Fulton's basketball team defeated the Fulton High quintet Tuesday night on the North Fulton court by a score of 52 to 38.

For the winners, it was Bob Church with 20 points who carried off high scoring honors, while Bob French was next best with 14.

Bob Davis Was Tech's Iron Man With 488 Minutes Playing Time

By GEORGE TISINGER

Bob Davis, the big fellow who won his All-America rating at Georgia Tech last season, gained his laurels the hard way and was by way of being the Jackets' iron man.

In 11 games Big Bob played longer than any of his mates—488 minutes—and was in there most of the time during all but two ball games, the Furman and the Citadel routs. He played four minutes against the Citadel and four and one-half against Furman.

In the Navy game he played the full 60 minutes and in the Duke and Georgia games he went for 59. He dropped down to 58 minutes of play in the Orange Bowl against Kansas. He had 54 combat minutes against Alabama, 50 each in the Auburn and VMI battles and 47 against Tennessee and 42½ against Tulane.

Davis' terriffic play never let up, either, and he was known as the best conditioned performer among the Techs. Rigid attention to training rules and a rubberized physique which could take any pounding and come back for more were given credit for his performance.

No. 2 man in time served under fire was George Brodnax, recently elected co-captain along with Jimmy Castleberry. Brodnax took it for 439½ minutes. Third in minuttes played was 1947 Co-Captain Bill Healey, who was in there 420½ minutes.

Ralph Slaten, Healey's opposite at the tackle posts, was in the going for a total of 344½ minutes.

In announcing the total minutes played during 1947, athletic authorities said that though two games, Furman and the Citadel, were shortened by agreement, the totals were computed on a basis of 60 minutes for each game and that the men who were in the lineup at the end of those two games were given credit for performance in a regulation game.

Besides Davis, only one other 60-minute performer appeared in the lists. He was Dinky Bowen, who went the route against Navy. Despite Dinky's leg injuries he saw action for 297½ minutes to wind up No. 5 in the listings though missing two full games, VMI and Auburn. Dinky had 56 minutes against Duke and 51 against the Crimson Tide.

Bill Healey played 59 minutes in the Navy contest, while Halfback Bob McCoy fought the Sailors for 50 minutes and Center Raymond Smith went for 55.

The Navy game saw more long termers than any other as the top Jackets had to stay in there in an effort to halt the Annapolis people.

Ralph Slaten took the pounding of the Georgia Bulldogs for 50 minutes despite the fact that he was forced out once with an injury. Brodnax was in the Georgia battle for 57 minutes.

Healey and Brodnax were among the longest under fire in the Orange Bowl. Brodnax had 54 minutes and Healey took it for 51.

The two freshman halfbacks, Bob McCoy and Red Patton, saw plenty of the work as coaches came to trust them under fire. McCoy played a total of 276 minutes, his longest term of service being 50 minutes against the Navy.

Patton totaled 103½ minutes but they were of the best for it was his pitching and catching that did things for Tech in the Navy, Kansas and other scraps.

Coaches emphasized Tuesday that minutes played had no definite relation to letter winners due to the free substitution rule. A player could perform for a short period of time and still be of letter-winning value to the team.

TO HELP BOYS, RUTH'S BIG HOPE

'I Was a Bad Kid,' He States Without Pride

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Babe Ruth was no orphan. His father's name always was Ruth and not Ehrhardt or Gearhardt. As a juvenile incorrigible, he was placed in a Baltimore institution.

These are a few facts the Babe tells of his youth in the first of a series of autobiographical sketches with Bob Considine. The series, appearing in the Saturday Evening Post, is a condensation of a book to be published. This, in turn, will be the basis for a motion picture of his life.

"I look back on St. Mary's (industrial school in Baltimore) as one of the most constructive periods of my life," he said. "Im as proud of it as any Harvard man is proud of his school."

"I was a bad kid," he starts out. "I say that without pride, but with a feeling that it is better to say it. Because I live with one great hope in my mind—to help kids who now stand where I stood as a boy."

Ruth said his father, George Herman Ruth, lived until his second year in the majors. His mother, whose maiden name was Schanberg, died when he was 13. Most of the first seven years of his life were spent living over his father's saloon in Baltimore.

The Babe said his parents placed him in St. Mary's when he was seven. He described St. Mary's as "a training school for orphans, incorrigibles, delinquents, boys whose homes had been broken up by divorce, runaways picked up on the streets of Baltimore and children of poor parents who had no other means of providing an education for them."

"I was listed as an incorrigible," he relates, "and I guess I was. Looking back on my early boyhood, I honestly don't remember being aware of the difference between right and wrong. If my parents had something that I wanted very badly, I took it, but I must have had some dim realization that this was stealing, because it never occurred to me to take the property of anyone besides my immediate family. I chewed tobacco when I was seven, not that I enjoyed it especially, but, from my observations around the saloon, it seemed the normal thing to do."

Five different times he was released from St. Mary's to his parents between 1902 and 1914. The last item on his record at the school said briefly:

"He is going to join the Balt. Baseball team."

Ruth said Brother Matthias of Xaverian Brothers taught him how to pitch and hit at St. Mary's. He related how Jack Dunn, boss of the Baltimore Orioles, agreed to become his legal guardian when he signed him in 1914 for $600 per year.

Armed Faces Big Test at Miami Today

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 10—(AP)—Calumet Farms will level its three big guns—Armed, Citation and Faultless—at the $10,000 Seminole Handicap purse Wednesday at Hialeah Race Course.

Appearance of the top three stars from one of the top racing stables in the nation may provide an answer to the question which has been stable gossip for some time: Is the mighty Armed getting too old to race?

Calumet Gen. Mgr. Ben Jones and Trainer H. A. (Jimmy) Jones are openly dissatisfied with Armed's last performance—when he ran sixth in a $5,000 overnight event last Monday.

Conjecture that the golden gelding, second ranking money-earning thoroughbred of all time with nearly three quarters of a million dollars to his credit, has lost his championship spark has been high.

If Armed fails to show that old flame Wednesday, Jones said, it will mean a change in plans for the coming $50,000 Widener for which he has been nominated.

UPSY DAISY—Atlanta Police Chief Herbert Jenkins and Promoter Paul Jones cut a mean caper as they participate in the skating party which was given for the public on the ice arena at Municipal Auditorium Tuesday. The boys were not quite as graceful as some of the Holiday on Ice chorus girls, but they managed to stay upright on the highly veneered floor, much to the surprise of friends who gathered to watch a fall.

State Demo Factions Hit Dixie Secession

By JOHN COURIC

Leaders of both Democratic factions in Georgia were in agreement Tuesday that Dixie secession from the Party is no answer to President Truman's Civil Rights' proposal.

Roy Harris, chief lieutenant for Herman Talmadge, editorialized on the proposed revolt in his political weekly, the Augusta Courier. Harris commented: "Stay in the Democratic Party and fight the rascals."

Acting Gov. Thompson, leader of the other State faction, is on record as opposing party revolt, since he also believes that the FEPC and other Truman-indorsed legislation considered unfavorable to the South can be fought best within the party. He helped fight a Mississippi-sponsored revolt move last weekend at a meeting of the Southern Governors' Conference.

Meanwhile, Senate Pres. Pro Tempore William T. Dean, State Chairman of the Jefferson-Jackson Centennial Dinner campaign, announced that eight Georgia counties had met their quotas in the annual fund raising drive for the national party.

Mitchell County was the first to meet the quota, raising $400, which Dean said came from small donors with no donation exceeding $10. Woodrow Brooks, of Camilla, is Mitchell County Chairman, with Dr. B. L. Carlisle, of Camilla, and J. J. Harris, of Pelham, Co-Chairmen.

Mitchell County is the home of Fred Hand, Speaker of the State House of Representatives, and a Talmadge faction leader. The Thompson, and not the Talmadge faction, is in charge of the Jefferson-Jackson dinner campaign in this State.

Other counties to meet their quotas: Screven, Treutlen, Ben Hill, Lincoln, Columbia, Montgomery and Rockdale.

Dean also expressed himself against any party secession.

"A Southern Party could amount to more than an ineffectual voice of protest in National issues," he declared. He pointed out that the controversial civil rights issues will be decided in Congress where "Southern leadership . . . will champion our cause."

HALITOSIS BRINGS STRIKE

SYDNEY, Feb. 10—(AP)—A pit pony's reputed bat breath has caused 150 coal miners near Newcastle to walk off the job.

They went home complaining the pony had halitosis. They were in full disagreement with their own and management representatives who smelled the pony's breath and proclaimed it free of odor.

The Daily Mirror said the management had "offered to replace the horse or alternatively mix sweet-smelling musk with the chaff."

The miners haven't said yet whether they'll accept that.

Folk Dancing At Speech School

By DORIS LOCKERMAN,
Woman's News Editor

If Doris and Buddy O'Mara, the dancing couple, can only work out a simpler way to call "Do se do . . . and Allemande Right," the little deaf children at the Junior League Speech School may be swinging their partners right and left some of these days.

So far, the square dance sing-song mumbo-jumbo eludes the little sound-starved children, and though they hear the heel-clicking, swaying beat of the country music, they can't figure out what to do about it.

The O'Maras are bound to do something about folk dancing at the Speech School, where Rossie Gilmore and Helen Grove have primed the kids on ballet, and Mary Heybach has taught them to tap out the hottest rhythms around.

Of course, they already know the waltz, and the fox trot, and they are having no trouble at all with Fred Astaire's new swing trot. They simply put their hands on the piano, get the vibration and get a pointer or two and then set out.

Put Your Little Foot There

Constitution Staff Photo—Pat Livingston

Mrs. Doris O'Mara, right, coaches two grammar school youngsters from the Junior League Speech School in a new step. The dancers are Hinton Stone and Evelyn Chuck.

This dancing instruction has been going on a long time at the remarkable speech school, where it is considered dancing develops a sense of grace and poise and balance that nothing else achieves.

Mrs. O'Mara, who has probably danced with more of Atlanta's shuffling young bloods than anyone else in town except Margaret Bryan during her 16 years with Margaret, is now connected with the Astaire School.

She finds the Speech School youngsters like jitterbugging better than any other form of the dance, probably because they are inherently impatient and want to learn new steps all the time. It keeps her and Mrs. Dean Spratling, Jr., her volunteer aide, hopping to keep them stomping, but the reward comes when they meet them on the streets later, or on busses, or in downtown stores.

The children grin widely, lift their hands, and describe a great, joyous arc in the air.

"Dance!" they cry, in that tone of delight, "Dance!"

A Bloc of Thanks

Davis, who took the floor in the House of Representatives, Capitol Hill, Feb. 4, and spoke strongly to bring the pending bill to remove unfair taxes on oleomargarine before the House, and quoted, in its entirety, this column's plea last week for the end of the unjust tax on a staple and nutritious item.

Serve Your Leftover Meat In Many Tempting Dishes

By SALLY SAVER

This is a story about leftover meat. Perhaps it's yesterday's stew that by planned buying will make its second appearance, 'neath a brown topping of baking powder biscuit or a crown of mashed potatoes.

Perhaps the all important meat base is the flank end of a steak, the last trimmings from a rump or shoulder pot rost or a few slices left from the "boiled" beef.

The ingredients for a meat pie are small slices or cubes of cooked meat, enough good-flavored gravy to cover and float the meat. With this, combine cooked vegetables of equal, but not more than double, the measure of meat.

MEATS FOR PIE

Let's take these one at a time. Ground meat may be used in a meat pie, but identifiable pieces of meat are preferred. Two kinds of leftover meat may be combined as cooked beef with a sliced frankfurt, cooked veal with a slivered slice of cooked liver, a left-over cooked chop of lamb or pork, or a sausage pattie may be sliced and combined with either veal or beef.

GRAVY ALTERNATES

If gravy is missing, start with some minced onion browned in bacon drippings. Sprinkle with flour—two tablespoons for each cup of liquid. Stir and add the water, milk, or meat broth. A bouillon cube or two peps up the flavor. For richness of color, add a spoonful of meat sauce or catsup, or add a half teaspoon of horseradish or prepared mustard. Let the sauce bubble for about five minutes then add the meat and heat.

ARRANGEMENT OF INGREDIENTS

For the arrangement, pour the meat and gravy into the casserole or divide into individual servers. Distribute the vegetables evenly over the meat. If a biscuit topping is used, have enough gravy to cover the vegetables and be certain the filling is hot before placing the biscuits on top. Mashed potatoes will not absorb as much sauce. A biscuit topping needs 20 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees F.). For mashed potatoes, allow about 15 minutes or until the potatoes are lightly browned.

VEGETABLE FOR FLAVOR

For vegetables, use diced raw potatoes and carrots cooked about 10 mintes until just tender. Trim one-inch pieces of celery to add character. Cooked peas, cut green beans or asparagus, are good flavors but avoid sweet potatoes, squash, Brussel sprouts, or cabbage.

Have the vegetables hot. Heat the casserole. Have the topping ready — biscuit dough, or mashed potatoes.

Save Greece At All Costs, Author Says

By DORIS LOCKERMAN

Willie Snow Ethridge can't bear the thought of reading her new book "It's Greek to Me," for fear she will see phrases she once thought transcendent turn out to be duds, but she hopes she gave her prospective readers the idea she intended to convey:

We must not give up in Greece, no matter how much it costs.

Her husband, Mark Ethridge, publisher, Louisville Courier Journal and the kinds of newspaper man automatically described as distinguished, is apt to lift his brow at such a remark and probe:

"Even if it means Mark, Jr., will have to go to war again?"

To which his volatile, humorous "roommate," as Mrs. Ethridge calls herself, is apt to demur, as she did here Tuesday.

"Well . . . we can do it without war . . . if only we will."

Willie Snow Ethridge toured Greece in a jeep while her husband served in the Balkans as the American delegate on the UN Commission, saw Greek village after Greek village burned to the ground, their menfolks and boys all killed . . . "hundreds of Lidices." At her side was a Greek girl interpreter who impatiently interrupted long stories of sadness and tales of their bitterness against their own guerrillas from her people to interpolate: "The dead must be with the dead! The living must be with the living! Let us get on with life."

MARSHALL PLAN

It is in that spirit, perhaps, that Mrs. Ethridge so fervently believes in the Marshall Plan as the very salvation of the world. She and her husband work ardently in the cause of the idea that Marshall himself termed a "calculated risk," "as a gamble, but one we must take."

"We must not condemn Western Europe as a ruined land. It has been highly productive! It has been rich! If we can get it back on its feet again, trade will follow; cultural and democratic feeling will be exchanged; there will be a chink in the Iron Curtain no matter what Russia does. I don't think it matters exactly how much it costs. The thing we must consider is what it will cost if we do not do 't!

"This world cannot avoid war if we isolate ourselves building up a great war machine, as the Anti-Marshall Plan thinkers would have us do . . . and letting Russia do the same."

Mrs. Ethridge says Russia is busily fomenting strife and misery, on the proper assumption that such conditions are fertile grounds for communism. She believes revolutions, strikes, chaos are part of the Russian plan of encroachment.

The Louisville publisher's wife, who was born in Savannah and lived many years in Macon, does not feel we should simply stand by and do nothing in America . . . especially the women of America. She is active in the Louisville League of Women Voters, and the Women's Action Committee, and makes repeated public appearances urging women to be heard on every issue.

"I keep telling them to vote," she said, "but they don't do it. They should write their congressmen personally, often, letting them know how they feel on issues of the day. This is no time to be removed from the problems of the day!"

Mrs. Ethridge will be in town through Wednesday, autographing her newest and fifth book from 3 to 5:30 p. m. in the book department at Rich's.

Beauty News

Valentine's Day is not far away. (Feb. 14, to quote the calendar.)

One doesn't have to be a numerologist to know that love in any language is told in terms of two. Ever since Mr. Noah traffic-copped his animals into the Ark . . . two has been true! It takes two to make a romance. Two to dance a tango. Two to sing a duet.

All of which brings up a new Duette in the cologne department. Farberge's has brought out a Valentine's Day gift combining two flacons of Woodhue, for country clothes, combined with Aphrodisia, for satins and taffeta, Tigress, for furs, or Straw Hat, for straw bonnets, prints and cottons. You choose the Duette you prefer. The golden gift box in which they are encased, is pretty enough to be used later on your dressing table for costume jewelry, hair pins, earrings.

Harriet Hubbard Ayer has suggested YU as the Valentine perfume from her line. It matches a similar fragrance in cologne, bath powder and bath-sheen. Another Ayer ensemble combines a three-for-one deal with "Be Wise," "Be Gay," "Be Loved," as their titles.

Prince Matchabelli has gift-wrapped minature crowns of three of his perfumes in rosy red paper, and tagged them with hearts-and-flowers cards just to honor Valentine's Day. Crown Jewel, Stradivari, and Duchess of York are the three.

Matchabelli has a cologne, Gypsy Patteran, named for the legendary trail of flowers left by gypsy maidens for their lovers to follow (it was crumbs the kiddies left in the fairytales). And his final one is called Three of Hearts, wrapped in a pretty blue box splashed with rosy red hearts. It has Potpourri, Gypsy Patteran, and one called Holly Berry.

If you are really determined to play the role of the chubby little fellow with the bow and arrow this week, try Strategy perfume from Mary Chess, with toilet water to match. Oh yes, and sachets, too. One of the loveliest is a turquois blue satin pillow trimmed with a straw flower, and it will tell its fragrant story in bureau drawers long after St. Valentine's sentimental day has passed.

TO JUDGE CAMELLIA HATS

Magazine Fashion Editor Visits City

By MAYNITA GERRY

Constance Woodworth, Fashion Editor of Harper's Bazaar, came down with a sudden attack of mixed emotions on her first trip to Atlanta Tuesday. It happened just as she got her first glimpse of the hat entries in the Camellia Show at the Biltmore Hotel, which she was to judge.

"Have you ever seen anything as lovely as these camellia hats? she asked breathlessly. "Wouldn't it be wonderful if women always wore hats like these?" she went on, without waiting for a reply to her first question. "I believe even men would like their hats then." "But, oh," she moaned as if in great pain (or ecstasy), "I'll never be able to pick a winner, they're all so pretty."

"So this is the sunny South," Miss Woodworth chuckled, as she forcibly tore her attention away from the camellia-laden hats long enough to gaze out at the snow-laden streets. "Snow or not, I'm still going to wear the straw hat I bought especially for this show," she added vehemently. "No, there are no flowers on my hat. I wouldn't think of trying to compete with these gorgeous camellias."

Fashionably clad in all-gray ensemble (not out of deference, we hope, to our deep South weather), Miss Woodworth explained that she had only recently returned from a trip to California. Recently enough to recall that the weather out there was beautiful . . . as recently as last week.

Harper's Bazaar, she explained further, starts compiling material four months before it's to be used, which means that her California trip won't bear fruit publicly until April or May.

Although Miss Woodward is a writer professionally, her supervisory duties at Harper's don't allow much time for that now. A few years ago she traveled through South America and wrote a series of articles about its women's activities for a nationally known magazine.

Now most of her time is spent choosing the types of clothes to be photographed and written about and telling women things like whether to wear or not to wear pearls. By the way, pearls will still be worn in the Spring.

"What I like most about the new fashions is that they make women look pretty and feminine," said Miss Woodworth, "and that's the way women were meant to look. But, and I can't stress this too strongly, fashion should never be followed strictly as fashion, but rather as it can be adapted to the individual."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs.

Yesterday we observed that even a three-card holding in dummy may sometimes be regarded as a short suit, and permit the ruffing of the fourth round. The same principle is involved in today's illustration with an additional kink.

The bidding requires some comment. North's response of two clubs will not be found on any teacher's charts and cannot be considered as correct. North made this response, not with any intention of being psychic. He was actually strapped for a bid. It was somewhat too good for a negative one no trump response, he felt. Actually he was wrong. A hand that is distributed 4-3-3-3 with only two tricks is not impressive and the holder should not fear to make a one no trump response. If partner does not move, a game will rarely be lost. I make it a practice to mentally subtract one-half trick every time I hold 4-3-3-3 distribution, unless my partner has indicated a very unbalanced hand.

The king of clubs was opened despite the bid of that suit. Declarer won with the ace and observed that he must lose two clubs and at least a diamond. If, however, diamonds divide 3-3, the contract will be safe. So declarer promptly extracted trumps. When the diamond suit failed to split, two tricks had to be lost in that suit and the contract was defeated.

Proper technique would have brought home the hand. Since one diamond trick must be lost in any event, that trick should be given up at once. The defense will presumably cash two club tricks and then shift. Declarer is now in and draws only two trumps. If the diamonds are going to break there is no need to draw the last trump. If the diamonds are not going to break, it will do no good to draw the last trump. But there is a chance that the player who is short in diamonds will be short in trumps, and it should be tried. The ace and king of diamonds are cashed and West shows out but cannot trump because he is out of ammunition. The fourth diamond is now ruffed in rummy and all is serene. Declarer must follow the sequence of plays outlined above. If he draws two rounds of trumps before giving up the diamond, East will continue with a third round of trumps and prevent the ruff in dummy.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Hamilton McCombs Join Ranks of Newcomers Here

Among attractive recent newcomers to the city are Eleanor and Hamilton McComb, who moved from Memphis to Atlanta, having previously resided in Cleveland, Ohio. They are now living on Ridgewood Road.

Though she was born in Illinois, Eleanor is by no means a stranger to Atlanta, for she has many friends here made while she was a student at Agnes Scott College, among whom are Penelope (Mrs. Crawford) Barnett and Mary (Mrs. Joe) Reid. Then, too, her sister and brother, Jean Gray and Alex Morgan, live here.

Eleanor, who is a pretty wavy-haired brunette, minored in zoology while at Agnes Scott and majored in the same subject when she took graduate work at the University of Georgia. Hamilton hails from Columbia, S. C., and is prominently identified in business with the U. S. Guarantee Company.

The McCombs have five children—Judy, who is 12; Margaret, aged eight; Bill, who is six years old; three-year-old Mary Elin, and the baby, Mike, aged one year. So it's little wonder that Eleanor has few spare moments, aside from housekeeping, to devote to her hobbies, which are playing bridge, golf and gardening. Her liking for golf and bridge are shared by Hamilton, too.

Numerous informal social affairs have been given to fete this delightful couple. Recently Augusta (Mrs. Fritz) Orr invited a group of Eleanor's former Agnes Scott friends to an informal morning coffee, at which Mrs. Walter Colquitt, another recent newcomer, shared honors.

Another Case of 'Greek' to Willie

While Willie Snow Ethridge, author of the recently published "It's Greek To Me," was serving as the very charming honor guest for a luncheon given yesterday at Rich's by Anna (Mrs. Willard) Patterson, a florist box was handed to her. On opening it, she found two beautiful dark purple orchids.

Willie was characteristically delighted and thrilled at such attention, but when she spied the card, a puzzled look came over her face.

"Now who in the world is Garry Dingham?" she queried.

Receiving no help, she apparently dismissed the subject. A minute later, however, she exclaimed: "Oh, now I have it! They are from Barry Bingham."

The orchids had been sent her by the owner and editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, of which her husband, Mark Ethridge, is publisher. Mr. Bingham had, of course, wired the order for the flowers.

Freshman Dream Realized

Mary Louise Hastings and Ruth Hoppe finally fulfilled the dream of their freshman year of college—they attended Mardi Gras together yesterday!

The girls have been close friends since childhood. Mary Louise decided to take a special course at Vassar, and discovered she would graduate a year before Ruth. Then and there she and Ruth decided to attend Mardi Gras when Ruth would one day be a senior at Sophie Newcomb in New Orleans. Yesterday they did just that.

Mary Louise is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Brown, in the Crescent City, where the girls have been extensively entertained. Annie Colman honored them at a luncheon, and Mrs. Alice Wilson will also entertain them before Mary Louise returns on Saturday.

University Women To Give Banquet

William Wilkerson will address the Atlanta branch of the American Association of University Women at a banquet on Friday at 6:30 p. m. at the Ansley Hotel.

Mr. Wilkerson, who is president and founder of the Auto-Soler Company, is well-known in the educational field. His subject will be "Dixie Look to Your Bootstraps."

Members are invited to bring visitors and are requested to make reservations by calling Mrs. W. F. Flaherty at Ch. 5279.

Mr., Mrs. Rich To Fete New York Visitor

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rich will entertain at a cocktail party on Feb. 22 at 5 o'clock at their home on West Andrews Drive, honoring Mrs. Ben Wycker, of New York City, who arrives on Feb. 21 to be the guest of these prominent Atlantans for a week.

Many informal social affairs are being planned to fete this attractive Easterner.

Wesleyan Group IV To Meet Saturday

Members of Group IV of the Atlanta Wesleyan Club will hear Miss Lucy Marvin Adams, Atlanta Physiotherapist, speak on the "Secrets of Relaxation" when they meet at 3 o'clock Saturday at the home of Mrs. Marian Harris, 315 West Ponce de Leon Ave., Decatur. Mrs. Alton S. Farris will be cohostess.

Miss Virginia McJenkins is Group Chairman. Preparations will be made for the annual election of officers and a nominating committee will be appointed.

VA TO FIRE 641—The Veterans' Administration will dismiss 641 employees in the five Southeastern States on March 31, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The biggest cut will come in the vocational rehabilitation and education section where 434 employees will lose their jobs. All personnel cuts will be made in accordance with the rules of the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

VA officials here said the Southeastern branch office at the old Bell Bomber Plant will lose 60 employees and the Georgia Regional office at the Belle Isle Building, 121, making a total reduction in the Atlanta area of 181 workers.

Other reductions were broken down as follows: Columbia, S. C., 49 employees; Miami, 22; Montgomery, Ala., 150; Nashville, 159, and Pass-a-Grille, Fla., 80. Officials said these figures do not include "possible further cuts in VA hospitals and out-patient medical programs."

SUIT FOR $50,000—John Grant Lane, Jr., of Evansville, Ind., Tuesday filed suit in Federal Court through his father, John Grant Lane, asking $50,000 damages from the Atlanta and West Point Railroad Company, the Southern Railway Company and the Pullman Company. The suit charges that young Lane, an infant at the time of the occurrence in June, 1944, was thrown from his stepmother's arms when the train they were riding from Montgomery, Ala., to New York City jerked and jolted suddenly, resulting in painful injury and permanent disfigurement. John L. Westmoreland is attorney for the plaintiff.

Yates Explains Bell Tax Rebate

C. J. Yates, Georgia Manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, made the following comment today on a story appearing in The Constitution Monday relative to a tax refund of $3,937,462 received by the Company:

"This refund—a non-recurring refund—came to us in the year 1946 and represented an adjustment received on taxes paid during the year 1944. This refund was taken fully into account in our 1946 operations.

"This temporary tax relief which the Company received was in accordance with the Federal Income Tax law which provided that if a corporation's 1946 taxable income fell below previous years it would receive a refund of part of the so-called excess profits taxes paid for the year 1944.

"The 1946 income for the Company's operations in the nine Southern States fell below the prescribed limits and the tax paid for 1944 was re-computed, the $3,937,462 refund resulting.

"While the Company's earnings have continued a dangerous downward trend since 1946, no provision was made in the Income Tax law for refunds in 1947 or subsequent years."

Havana Pupils Riot For New Building

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 10—(AP)—Rioting students seized and wrecked the Havana Institute Tuesday and spread havoc elsewhere in the Havana area.

The students demonstrated in sympathy with fellow students at Guantanamo, on the eastern tip of this island, who are staging a hunger strike to enforce their demands for construction of a new institute (high school) building.

The boys wrecked streetcars on the Prado, a main thoroughfare leading into the heart of the capital. They also tore down trolley lines.

TODAY IN RADIO

By PAUL JONES

Radio Troubador Tony Martin starts the Texaco Star Theater off with a British hit tune at 10:30 tonight when he, Alan Young and Evelyn Knight team up for some close harmony and clowning in ABC Studio "A." The station here is WCON, 55 on the dial.

Tony's tune is "Now Is the Hour." This will be the radio premiere of the ballad. Miss Knight will join in the chorus.

Tony Martin

There's something about "11" which is lucky for the crooning master of ceremonies, for Martin will offer a medley of "lucky" tunes, too. He'll sing "This Is My Lucky Day" and "Lucky in Love" as encores. "Donkey Serenade" and "New Orleans," a tune about the Mardi Gras, compose the rest of the show.

11th Has Charm

The eleventh day of February is a lucky day for Evelyn McGregor and Bob Hannon, also. Miss McGregor will chirp "How Lucky You Are." Her remarks, no doubt, will be directed at Baritone Bob. Hannon's numbers include "Ballerina" and "Serenade of the Bells." It's on WSB at 8.

Heart 'Trouble'

St. Valentine's Day is supposed to be a day in which cards expressing love and devotion are exchanged by sweethearts. But, an altogether different situation develops on the Mayor of the Town 'cast at 8 tonight via WCON and ABC. Mayor Lionel Barrymore and his colleagues and helpers all have trouble selecting appropriate cards and gifts to send their loved ones. Inevitable mistakes occur leading to a running series of misunderstandings on all sides. Mayor Barrymore pacifies the lot with a very sagacious and human maneuver.

'Optomistic'

The most "optimistic show" on the air tonight is the Mark Warnow musical show which WGST and CBS carry at 9. Musically it will say "The Best Things in Life Are Free" and "Oh, What a Beautiful Morning." A group of Tin Pan Alley teasers and a light reference to things gone by, "Yesterday" and "Long Ago and Far Away," round out the program.

Talks About Trade

Parks Johnson and Warren Hull, radio's popular Vox Pop team, turn their thoughts to serious things tonight when they interview Will L. Clayton, former Undersecretary of State and authority on foreign trade, during the WCON and ABC show at 8:30.

The broadcast will be centered on questions about foreign commerce in a peacetime economy, a subject on which Clayton is a recognized authority. Men who direct the flow of commerce into Boston, Mass., Harbor will tell interesting stories about their work as a program sidelight.

Happy Birthday

Jimmy Durante, the popular "Schnoz" of the airwaves, takes a bow from the entire cast of his NBC and WSB show at 10:30 tonight, when the gang sings "Happy Birthday" on the occasion of Jimmy's fifty-fifth anniversary. Victor Moore, Peggy Lee, Candy Candido, Dave Barry and the Crew Chief's Quartet join in the celebration.

Mrs. Ethridge Is Guest

Willie Snow Ethridge, author, former Macon newspaperwoman and wife of Mark Ethridge, of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal, talks about books, women and business at 2 p. m. today on WCON when she chats with Virginia Wells, Director of Women's Activities of The Constitution station.

'New Heart' Girl Continues To Improve

CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 10—(AP)—Betty Lee Woolridge, 21, continuing to improve after a delicate heart operation here 11 days ago, looked forward Tuesday to returning home to Canton, Ohio, Sunday.

The Ohio girl, whose operation has given hope to thousands of rheumatic fever victims, was reported in "fine" condition at Roper Hospital.

Dr. Horace G. Smithy, Assistant Professor of Surgery at the Medical College of South Carolina, performed the difficult operation on her heart valves. He said that such operations have not been attempted in a quarter of a century.

CHANNING COPE'S ALMANAC:

Difference Between Fried, Sizzled Chops

WEDNESDAY, FEB. 11, 1948

Suggestion of the day: It's just about time to soda the small grain in South Georgia and it won't be long until it's time to do the same in the Piedmont section. And that goes double for fescue grass. It needs the nitrogen, as much as you can get on up to 700 pounds per acre. The Spring fertilization of fescue seems to be many times as valuable as the Fall fertilization.

SIZZLING A PORK CHOP

"Well," he says, "I see where you make the statement that Aunt Susie will sizzle a pork chop on your 12:45 broadcast and I listen in and I hear the pork chop sizzling all right, but what I want to know is what's the difference between sizzling a pork chop and frying a pork chop."

"Well," says us, (acting surprised like), "I'm right proud you asked us for there is all the difference in the world between frying a pork chop and sizzling a pork chop, the latter being a very superior method of preparing an eating pork chop, the former being a way of preparing a selling pork chop. That is to say, one is designed for the customer and the other is designed for you, personally."

In the first place, you should select your pork chops with care, the best ones come about one inch thick and if they have been raised on my sponsor's feed, so much the better. There should be enough of them to go around; that is, from three to six per person; some people wanting more and others wanting less, but it is important to serve them stacked up like pancakes as this adds to the appetite and makes for easier digestion. The best time to serve them is breakfast when the stomach is rested and the capacity is ample.

And now for the sizzling itself. The first thing to do is to bring your skillet up to the right temperature. This is determined by the action of the grease in the skillet. It mustn't be passive, nor do you want it turbulent; you want it at the angry stage. This stage can be discerned by easing a pilot pork chop into the grease. If the chop fizzles, the grease is not hot enough; if the chop growls, the grease is too hot, but if it sizzles, the grease is just right.

Now it is very important that the chop be kept at the right temperature. And this is done by using a long-handled cooking fork, 16 inches in length. So long as the grease sprays the back of your hand lightly as you hold the cooking fork, while steering the chops around in the skillet, you are sure that the temperature is okay. Watch out for big drops, they are a sure indication that the grease is too hot.

Now, here comes the finer points of sizzling. The skillet is seldom hot to the same degree all over. Most often the hottest part is in the deep center. It ought to be clear then, that the chops should be moved about, this way and that, according to their needs. The chop that is lagging behind (so to speak) needs moving over into the center; the chop that is browning too quickly needs prizing over to the edge of the pan where it is cooler.

And now, the piece de resistance! There is on every pork chop worthy of the name, a rim of firm fat extending part way around its border. The novice ignores this band as does the professional concerned only with getting the chop to the customer, and the chop winds up on the table with the fat underdone. Not only is this wanton waste but a tragedy, no less. For a chop to meet its high destiny must contain both lean and fat, the lean barely done throughout and tinged a light brown here and there on both sides while at the same moment the fat requires a uniform firm browning throughout.

And here's how it is done. The eye is kept on the FAT, not the lean, and as the chop moves about in the skillet in line with its temperature requirements, the edging of fat is pressed gently (at first) and then more vigorously with the tines of a double-tined cooking fork. As the fatty tissues break down under the heat, the process is accelerated by the proddings of the fork and in the end, both lean and fat emerge, done, juicy, flavorsome, succulent and eatable.

And this is what is known as sizzling a pork chop.

"Agriculture for an honorable and high-minded man, is the best of all occupations or arts by which men procure the means of living." Xenophon.

And if this growing weather continues, we will be farming up a storm on the radio programs at 6 a. m. and 12:45 p. m. over WCON. Will you lend a hand?

Until then,

Channing Cope

All Grains Drop Limit Allowed In Day's Trading

CHICAGO, Feb. 10 —(AP)— All grain futures plunged the daily permissible limit at the Board of Trade today. Liquidation started early in the corn pit, and soon other pits were filled with selling orders.

Wheat resisted the early decline of corn for a time on buying attributed to milling interests, and oats were inclined to be stubborn, but during the last hour traders stood around with nothing but selling orders in their hands. Trading was at a standstill with all grains at the limit decline.

Traders sought a reason for the liquidation. Some said the selloff in corn was influenced by Monday's heavy marketing of livestock at sharply reduced prices. Others said lower cotton and stock markets were reflected by grains.

C. M. Galvin statistician for James E. Bennett and Co., said "the general selling appeared to reflect lack of confidence in present prices. Both holders of grain and prospective buyers, seem to have lost confidence."

One phase of trading today was fairly heavy spreading transactions involving the May and July contracts.

At the finish wheat was 10 cents lower than yesterday's close May $2.47. Corn was 8 cents lower, May $2.13¾. Oats were 6 cents lower, May $1.02⅝ and soybeans were 8 cents lower, March $3.49.

Top figures for this year's wheat crop were $3.06½; corn $2.70 and oats $1.29½. The decline to today's levels was 59½ cents for wheat, 56½ cents for corn and 26⅞ cents for oats.

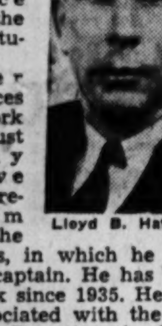

Since liquidation started February 3, which was temporarily halted yesterday, wheat has declined as much as 39½ cents a bushel. Corn 34½ cents, oats 30¾ cents and soybeans 37 cents.

Additional moisture over the winter wheat section was promised by the five-day weather forecast with temperatures averaging 3 to 10 degrees below normal. Over the corn light precipitation and temperature 8 to 12 degrees below normal.

Lard withstood the decline in grains for a time today but the unsettled condition of the livestock and other markets forced prices off the daily limit. All deliveries close $2.00 per hundredweight under the previous close, March $20.30.

Bear Sentiment Hits Wall Street As Stocks Skid

NEW YORK, Feb. 10 —(AP)— Stocks and commodities slumped in unison today with the former suffering their sharpest nosedive in 100 months and the overall share market average hitting a low since late last May on record breadth.

Dealings expanded after midday when liquidation became more urgent. While extreme setbacks were shaded here and there at the close, declines of one to five points enveloped virtually all groups. Transfers of 1,460,000 shares compared with 650,000 Monday and were the largest since Dec. 31.

Bearish sentiment gripped Wall Street as grains and other staples tumbled the day's permissible limits and stressed fears that a business recession later in the year, or sooner, might be foreshadowed. Weakness on the Paris Bourse and Sydney Exchange was a depressing influence. Offerings were blamed partly on the recent indifferent action of the market itself, concern over international economic situations, taxes and possible growing labor disputes.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off 1.7 points, widest dip since last April 14, finishing at 60.3, a bottom since May 27. The Utility Index was at a low for more than a year. Of 1,112 issues registering, a record for the Stock Exchange, 936 fell and only 60 rose.

Rock Island Railroad common conceded 4⅞ points at 27 when directors failed to initiate dividends despite recent brokerage rumors which had brought buying into the stock. Du Pont was off four at 170.

The bond market made a good showing today in comparison with the fast downward moves in stocks and commodities. While losses predominated as the session swung into the final hour, they were fractional for the most part and a number of key issues either held their ground or even edged ahead.

In the Curb Pantepec retained a minor advance on a raised dividend. Kaiser-Frazer was the liveliest as underwriters reported that an offering of 900,000 shares of this stock had been withdrawn. The issue was up most of the day but emerged with a decline at ⅛ at 11⅞. Backward were Cities Service, U. S. Foil "B", Brown-Forman and American Gas. Turnover here was 330,000 shares versus 170,000 yesterday.

Background to Business

Cotton Skids $10 A Bale Limit

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Cotton broke $9 to the $10 a bale limit in the futures market today. The plunge was the deepest for any day since October, 1946, when the market broke the $10 limit for three days running.

Cotton dealers said the break resulted chiefly from sagging grain markets. In addition the New Orleans cotton market, second largest in the nation, was closed to celebrate Mardi Gras and the New York market had to absorb much of the selling that normally would have been funnelled through the Southern exchange.

One major firm of cotton brokers reported the appearance of some "panicky" selling, or the liquidation of weak margin accounts.

The tumble in cotton prices, despite the fact that the statistical picture for the staple is relatively favorable, appeared puzzling at first glance. Dealers explained, though, that weakness in other speculative markets such as grains and securities was bound to spill over elsewhere. They cited the behavior of cottonseed oil futures, also favorably situated in the supply and demand picture, but today down the limit allowed.

Quotations in the cotton futures market, it was noted, moved closer to the level, about 30¾ cents a pound, at which the Government support is pledged. That support level, however, is based on the most recent parity price of 31.12 cents, which some traders feared might move downward. Parity prices are revised monthly by the Government.

Within a few minutes of the close the May delivery at 32.05 cents a pound and July at 31.44 were each off the $10 a bale minimum.

Solution to Yesterday's Puzzle

The Police Blotter

By KEELER McCARTNEY AND ROLFE EDMONDSON

HIT-AND-RUN HOUDINI — R. L. Cobb, 39, of 537 Morgan St., N. E., who did a disappearing act for police twice, is expected to "be around" for the next 146 days . . . According to Patrolmen R. E. Sheppard and P. T. Giles, Cobb ran into an automobile driven by W. H. Brown, Negro, of 330 Castleberry St., S. W., at the intersection of Glenn Iris Drive and Highland ave., N. E., on Jan. 9 Cobb, alleged to have fled, was arrested later and charged with drunk driving, leaving the scene of an accident, operating without a driver's license, and larceny of an automobile. . . . Cobb, during his Jan. 14 trial in Judge Luke Arnold's Traffic Court, disappeared from a crowded courtroom. . . . But alert Patrolmen Sheppard and Giles spotted and re-arrested the suspect again this week, and a second trial "took." Cobb, sentenced to pay $185 in fines or serve a total of 146 days Tuesday, elected to serve his time.

HEADACHE—Mrs. A. K. Matthews, of 829 Dixie Ave., S. E., told police she had a slight headache when she went into her bedroom and rummaged through a purse on her bed for aspirin. . . . But it was more painful when she returned a short time later to find a sneak thief had reached through the window and removed cash and property valued at $195 from the open purse.

THE HAND IS QUICKER—Police Tuesday were looking for two teen-aged boys who pulled a fast one on a PX Store clerk at 21 Edgewood Ave., N. E. . . . The clerk said the boys, representing themselves as prospective customers, were examining a $50 pair of binoculars when other customers walked in and asked to be waited on. . . . The busy clerk cared for his cash customers, then turned around to find both boys and binoculars gone.

MOTORISTS, BEWARE — Despite pleas of police that automobile owners not leave property in sight inside their cars, patrolmen Tuesday reported a seige of thefts from parked automobiles. . . . L. C. Jordan, of 149 Third St., N. E. said his car, parked in front of his home, was broken into and $100 worth of cooking utensils taken. . . . J. D. Van Todd, of 505 Lee St., S. W., reported similar theft of a $45 pistol. . . . Ralph Pitts, of De-Funiack Springs, Fla., reported a gun, camera and clothes valued at $135 were removed from his car while it was parked at 41 Third St., N. W.

YOUTH INJURED — James B. Carson, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carson, of 25 Bennett St., N. W., was admitted to Grady Hospital in serious condition Tuesday after being struck down by an automobile in front of 2118 Peachtree Rd., Fulton County Police Sgt. George Tumlin and George Davis reported. The youth ran into the side of a car driven North on Peachtree Road by Herschel Griffin, 18, of Roswell, Ga., officers said. No case was made against Griffin.

PARKING TICKETS—A drive to clear up old charges of illegal parking has netted the Atlanta Police Department a total of 191 cases placed on the court docket during the 20-hour period ending 8 p. m. Tuesday. In the last 10 days, the drive has resulted in 778 cases being docketed, mostly from back records. The usual fine is $3 for each offense.

FULTON TOWER DEATH—Homer Lee Holland, 65-year-old Negro, was found dead in his cell in Fulton Tower at 4:20 p. m. Tuesday. Holland had been transferred to the Tower Jan. 30 from the County Alms House on a lunacy warrant. Police said there was no evidence of violence. An inquest has been scheduled for today.

CHILD MOLESTER — Police have intensified search for a man who attempted to criminally assault a six-year-old kindergarten student last Oct. 16. The renewed efforts resulted from reports Tuesday that someone answering the same description had been molesting white children in the Hale and Elizabeth Streets area. The suspect was said to be driving an old model Chevrolet. He is thought by police to be the person who picked up a young girl in October on Memorial Drive near the Ed S. Cook School, driving her out Highway 42 past South River where he attempted to assault her and then abandoned her in the woods.

NORWEGIANS DEPART—Two Norwegian merchant seamen who landed in jail here Saturday following a misunderstanding with police left Atlanta at 7 p. m. Tuesday night on the train for New York. The two men, Erline Johansen, 38, and Johan Rapp, 30, had been escorted to the station Saturday to catch the same train by a well-meaning police lieutenant. Rapp allegedly hit the lieutenant and a reporter without provocation, however. An interpreter quoted Rapp as explaining everything had gone hazy. The Norwegians left with the blessings of the police, this time, however, under escort to the station by the Salvation Army.

Girl Overcoming Loss of Her Feet

PLYMPTON, Mass., Feb. 10—(AP)—Six-year-old Irma Santos is walking again this Winter even though 1947's Winter robbed her of feet.

Last year the little girl was lost for two days in frozen woods and both feet had to be amputated.

Her courage brought contributions from newspaper readers, and today the girl was home and walking on artificial feet.

Her mother, Mrs. Lawrence Santos, said:

"Our biggest worry is to keep her from running."

Edens Appointed To Educator's Post

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—(AP)—Arthur Hollis Edens, Vice Chancellor of the University System of Georgia, has been appointed an Associate Director of the General Education Board here, it was announced Tuesday.

Raymond B. Fosdick, Board President, said Edens would be concerned largely with education in the South in his new position. The Board is a philanthropic institution founded by the late John D. Rockefeller in 1902.

Amateur Weathermen Given Break

So, you think you can forecast the weather just about as well as the weather man, bub?

Well, just ramble down to H. G. Hastings Company, on Mitchell Street at the end of Broad, and you'll find a lot of recently developed instruments that can help your amateur forecasting.

But you'll also find a lot of complicated gadgets and gimmicks that will make you quickly realize that meteorology is an exact science. These are instruments that are used every day by the U. S. Weather Bureau, and it takes a well-trained person to use and understand them.

The display is all a part of a weather instrument show, which is attracting individuals and high school and college science classes this week. The instruments are supplied by the Weather Bureau and two commercial companies, with experts on hand to explain them.

There is a theodolite, which is used to track a helium-inflated pilot balloon up to 30,000 feet, measuring altitude, speed, wind drift, etc., and a radiosonde instrument which is carried aloft by larger balloons and transmits radio signals that enable observers below to measure altitude, temperature, humidity, wind drift and direction, and barometric pressure.

There is the day's weather map for the Nation, as charted by teletype reports from everywhere. On display is a rain gauge, and anemonometer with its wind direction and velocity indicator. And, still the "instrument of instruments for meteorologists" — the mercurial barometer, which was invented back in 1643.

For the amateurs there are many kinds of thermometers, barometers, stormoguides, and even altimeters for your automobile. There's a wind dial for your rooftop; thermometers that can measure temperature both inside and out, when placed near a window. And for anglers, a fisherman's barometer that tells when the fishing should be good on a rising barometer and not so good on a falling one.

"There are enough new instruments on the market now to enable even amateurs to accurately forecast the weather 24 hours ahead," said C. J. Hudson, of the Hastings Company. "But, not even these," he added, "nor the U. S. Weather Bureau instruments can yet tell us today when it's gonna stop raining."

MacArthur Orders Jap Crackdown

TOKYO, Feb. 10—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur directed the Japanese government Tuesday to crack down on violators of the land reform laws.

Many landlords are reluctant to sell their land to the government for resale to tenants. The government has acquired 3,400,000 acres under the reform act passed by the Diet Oct. 21, 1946. The acreage is about 71 percent of that to be purchased.
